Antimissile Test Shot Due Over Weekend

Nike Zeus Readied As Army Bids Anew For Production Fund

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army plans to try again next weekend to fire its Nike Zeus antimissile out over the Pacific.

The test, probably on Saturday, will come at a time when the Army is bidding anew for money to start limited production of parts for the controversial system.

Nearly a month ago, on Sept. 9, Army technicians made their first effort to shoot the Nike Zeus from Point Mugu Calif. Shortly after the missile shot skyward it exploded.

Although rebuffed repeatedly in the past, the Army is known to be seeking again to win an allocation in next year's defense budget for starting production of long-range items for the Zeus system.

Officials declined to say how much money was being sought, but it appeared likely the request might be about $100 million. The Army hoped for that amount a year ago but was turned down.

In addition to production money, the Army is asking for about $200 million in the 1963 fiscal year for further development work on the Zeus, the most advanced U.S. antimissile system. This would bring to about $1.4 billion the amount applied to Zeus research and development.

Testifying before congressional groups earlier this year, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara spoke of "widespread doubts as to whether the Nike Zeus system should ever be deployed."

He said then that the system, mostly above ground, is vulnerable to ballistic missile attack. He also indicated he was not convinced that the Zeus could work effectively against enemy missiles screened by decoys.

Since then, resumption of Soviet nuclear testing has given rise to speculation that the Soviets may be working on an antimissile system.

The Army hopes this development, plus Soviet threats to build a super nuclear bomb with the explosive power of 100 million tons of TNT, may cause defense officials to look more favorably on the Zeus.

Ford Strike Is Started by Auto Union

DETROIT (AP)—The United Auto Workers struck the Ford Motor Co. today as company and union negotiators apparently remained deadlocked on a new contract agreement.

Acting under union orders, some 120,000 Ford hourly workers walked off the job. UAW leaders here telephoned walkout instructions to locals across the country in observance of its 10 a. m. strike deadline.

All 26,545 employees in 13 Ohio Ford plants joined the walkout. Struck were:

The three Brook Park plants, with a total of 11,106; three Cincinnati area plants (at Sharonville and Fairfax), 4,953 workers; the Lorain assembly plant, 4,100; the Canton forging plant, 1,313; the Fostoria spark plug plant, 1,272; the Lima engine plant, 2,667; and the Sandusky parts plant, 1,134.

It was the first nationwide strike against Ford by the UAW since the company was organized by the union in 1941.

The walkouts came as negotiators continued a marathon bargaining session in an effort to avert a crippling strike. Company and union negotiators have been in continuous session for almost 25 hours.

Ford and the UAW reportedly were deadlocked over noneconomic contract issues, including production standards, after having settled on economic terms at midnight in overnight negotiations.

U.S. Nuclear Powered Rocket Is Planned in about 5 Years

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States aims to have a rocket with a nuclear engine ready for flight testing in about five years, a U.S. space official said today.

Nuclear propulsion, he said, is "necessary for manned interplanetary flights."

The official, Harold B. Finger, assistant director for nuclear applications for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration made his remarks in a paper prepared for delivery before the International Astronautical Congress.

He said NASA and the Atomic Energy Commission have been investigating flight-testing methods in a program known as RIFT for "reactor in flight test."

"Some time after the beginning of 1962, an industrial contractor will begin development activities on a RIFT-vehicle to meet the objectives of achieving flight testing in the 1966-67 time period," Finger said.

Plans call for launching the nuclear rocket on a short-range ballistic flight from Cape Canaveral, Fla. It would be lifted by a Saturn-type first stage.

After the initial RIFT flights, said Finger, other tests will be made involving:

1. Missions in which the vehicle will attain sufficient speed to leave the earth's gravitational field and go into orbit around the sun.

2. Flights in which the reactor is started up after it is in orbit around the earth.

Finger said present rocket engines which produce thrust from energy liberated in a combustion process, are inadequate for extensive manned space missions.

Texas Boy, 15, Survives; 11 Of Kin Killed

ANGLETON, Tex. (AP)—The shock is gone. Robert Dunn is settled in a routine almost normal for a 15-year-old.

The routine would be normal except Robert takes time each day to thank people by mail for money, clothes and kind words. He personally thanks Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Swanson of Angleton for giving him a home.

Robert lost 11 members of his family in Hurricane Carla.

His parents, four brothers and sisters, an aunt and uncle and three cousins were swept away by the storm's flood waters Sept. 11. They had tried to ride out the hurricane in the Dunn house.

"The last time I saw mom and dad they were holding hands and she was crying," he said.

The Swansons were close friends of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. (Shorty) Dunn.

"The Lord has blessed us with good incomes and we have a large house," Mrs. Swanson said. "We had been thinking of adopting an older boy and we know what kind of a boy Robert is."

Mrs. Swanson, 37, teaches first grade at an Angleton school. Her husband, 35, is a maintenance worker for a chemical company. Money sent to Robert has been placed in a savings account for him to use when he goes to college.

DeGaulle Firm In His Plans For Algeria

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle served notice on his political critics and enemies today that he is determined to carry out self-determination for rebelling Algeria, come what may.

In a nationwide radio-TV speech Monday night, the vigorous 70-year-old general made it clear he will not be side-tracked by bickering politicians or right-wing terrorists who want to keep Algeria a part of France.

Much of his speech repeated the policy he has frequently enunciated to resolve the nearly seven-year-old rebellion but with emphasis on these two points:

1. He will establish a provisional executive body to run Algerian affairs until a final solution is reached through a popular referendum. By implication, he appealed to the Algerian nationalist rebels to take part in the provisional regime and in preparation for the vote.

2. He will establish a security force (Force Publique) to see that the work of this future executive will neither be hampered nor destroyed.

DeGaulle did not go into detail about his "Force Publique." He had previously indicated in conversations with political leaders that it would consist of 50,000 men, largely Algerian Moslems.

Dr. H. C. Schick, Greene County coroner, said Jimmy, a Sunday school pupil at First Baptist Church in Fairborn, apparently lay on his bed, put the 12-gauge shotgun against his chest and used a coat hanger to pull the trigger.

$10,000 Suit Filed against Commissioners

Property Owners Claim Creek Flow Ruins Farm Land

Pickaway County's three Commissioners faced a $10,000 lawsuit today, growing out of a six-year-old dispute over road and bridge changes in Walnut Twp. near Little Walnut Creek.

The petition, filed in the Clerk of Courts office by J. Arthur and Dolly M. Sark, Route 1, charges the Commissioners with responsibility for water damage allegedly occurring between 1954 or 1955 and now on the Sark property along the creek.

It is claimed about six years ago the Pickaway County Commissioners approved removal of a covered bridge in the Circleville-Groveport Rd. over Little Walnut Creek. A new span was erected to replace it.

The plaintiffs state in constructing the new bridge the defendants caused the Royalton - Bloomfield Rd. to be raised approximately 10 feet in height for a distance of about 500 feet west from the intersection with the Circleville - Groveport Rd. It is said the Circleville - Groveport Rd. was also raised to the same height for a distance of 1,056 feet north of the bridge.

According to the Sarks, prior to the change in elevation the creek waters would overflow in time of flood onto bottom land north of the bridge.

Since the elevation of the roads, however, they charge the highways act as levees to prevent flood waters from spreading over the bottoms. This, combined with the angle of abutment of the new bridge causes the water to be forced "under the bridge in a more narrow channel, at a greater speed and velocity, causing eddies and whirlpools against the north-west bank of Little Walnut Creek in a westerly direction from the new bridge," according to the suit.

The petition further states the stream has now washed away the bank adjacent to a part of the plaintiffs' lands, creating invasions and depositing sand, gravel, and debris on the Sark property.

A judgement of $10,000 plus costs of the action, is asked against Commissioners Charles Morris Jr., Lloyd Melvin and Clyde Michel. The Sarks are being represented in the action by Lemuel B. Weldon and Emmitt L. Crist, attorneys.

16th Nuclear Explosion Is Fired by Russians

The Atomic Energy Commission announced Monday that the Soviet explosion had a yield "on the order of a megaton." This is equivalent to 1 million tons of TNT.

New Syria Premier Outlines Policies To Remain Neutral

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—Premier Mamoun Kuzbari today launched his revolutionary regime on a neutral course in foreign affairs. At home he propounded a policy of encouraging private ownership.

Thus he followed President Gamal Abdel Nasser's foreign policy of nonalignment in the cold war, while putting a brake on the United Arab Republic's nationalization program that stirred unrest in Syria.

The Syrian lawyer-politician outlined his views Monday night in his first news conference with foreign correspondents since the uprising that sundered the Syrian-Egyptian merger under the flag of the U.A.R.

Pledging a return to parliamentary democracy, he put a four-month time limit on the period he and his Cabinet would serve, adding: "I hope the time will be less."

Kuzbari termed the four-month period the maximum he would allow the new regime "to prepare for elections and parliamentary rule."

He said the Cabinet will discuss the possible return of firms nationalized last summer by decree of President Nasser. But Nasser's agrarian reform program, the premier said "will remain as is."

The government, which he termed the Syrian Arab Republic, will aim toward "a sound, democratic socialist life" which Kuzbari said will encourage private ownership, industrialization and foreign investment.

As one step toward a return to democratic principles, Kuzbari said the ruthless intelligence

A-Fugitives Seek Roles In New Home

CHICO, Calif. (AP)—Alvin Bauman, spokesman for the New York "nuclear fugitives," said to Chico Mayor Ross Lawler "We want to become a part of your city and to grow with it."

Bauman, 43, a concert pianist and former Columbia University professor, spoke for the 35 emigrants fleeing what they consider a greater nuclear danger in New York.

The question is, how will they become a part of Chico?

Their group numbers such diversified talents as those of Teal Ames, former television actress; Gene Gordon, a sculptor; Jane Andrews, teacher; Lou Oles, a free-lance trumpet player; and pianist Bauman.

Mayor Lawler was optimistic about the group's chances for settling and becoming useful citizens.

He said, "They've all rented homes here. We even understand they've made deposits in our local bank. So you know they aren't a bunch of beatniks. Yes sir—I think it's going to be all right."

If worse comes to worse in finding employment, maybe some of the emigrants could even find jobs at the nuclear missile launching center a few miles outside Chico.

Radioactive Birds Awaited in England

SEVENOAKS, England (AP)—A British bird expert said today thousands of feathered migrants made radioactive by Soviet nuclear tests in the arctic will fly into Britain this month.

The ornithologist, Dr. James Harrison said the migrants are mostly wading birds which customarily winter along British rivers and marshes. He added that many of those poisoned by the nuclear fallout will die.

Dr. Harrison and his son operate a bird laboratory and have spent years assessing the damage done to flying wildlife by nuclear tests.

Cleveland Firm Successful Bidder for Knollwood Bonds

Fahey, Clark & Co., a Cleveland firm, was the successful bidder for the purchase of bonds to finance Knollwood Village County Sewer District, Pickaway County Commissioners announced yesterday afternoon after examining the bids submitted.

The northern Ohio company entered a bid of 3% per cent rate of interest on the $45,395 bond package with a premium return of $264.

J. A. White & Co. was second lowest bidder on a proposal of 3 1/2 per cent rate of interest and a $542 premium return.

Only one local firm, the Second National Bank, entered the bidding. The bank offered a 3 1/2 per cent interest rate and a $425 premium return.

CONSTRUCTION of the district sewer system is expected to start soon. The sale of bonds yesterday will provide funds to construct eight 18-inch diameter sewer lines, properly spaced manholes and a sewage treatment facility.

The Commissioners studied the bids at length before announcing their decision.

In other action, the Commission approved the plat of the four-acre Floral Acres Gardens subdivision submitted by developer Louis Gump.

Approval by a unanimous vote was also given to a request by Auditor Marvin Rhodes that he and Deputy Auditor Donna L. Foreman be permitted to attend a meeting of area auditors tomorrow in Logan. Cost of the trip was estimated at $15.

J. Leo Hedges and Roger Bower, deputy auditors, and Mrs. Rhodes also received approval to attend the Southwestern District Auditor's Association conference Oct. 10.

Knight Slated To Name Nixon 'Bribery' Aide

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Goodwin J. Knight says he'll name Richard Nixon's alleged job-offering emissary Wednesday.

One man who thinks he'll be named at Knight's news conference issued his denial in advance.

J. Howard Edgerton, a Los Angeles financier said: "I have never been an emissary of Dick Nixon on any matter in my entire life." He said he believes he is the man Knight will name, but did not elaborate.

Knight's revelation will come one week after Nixon announced he would oppose the former governor for the Republican state house nomination in 1962.

Knight charged that a friend of the former vice president had offered any job in the state if Knight would quit the race.

Nixon called the charge "false and libelous on its face."

Harry Farrell, political writer for the San Jose (Calif.) News, wrote Monday that Edgerton would not confirm nor deny he called Knight Sept. 7 — the day Knight says the offer was made. But Farrell said Edgerton flatly denied he was Nixon's emissary.

Family of 7 Dies in Crash; Boy, 11, Left

FREMONT, Neb. (AP)—"Why can't people drive better? Why can't they be more careful?"

Roger Lewis, 11, stubbornly held back tears as he spoke.

"I don't know who was to blame," he said slowly. "But someone must have been careless, or they'd have come for me and we'd all be together again."

His grandmother laid her hand on his shoulder. They sat together on an old studio couch beneath a tree, both thinking of his future.

Roger Lewis and his family had driven up Sunday from their home in Blair, a little Missouri River town 25 miles east of Fremont. Roger's stepfather, Dallas Talkington, was going to apply for a job Monday at a concrete products plant here.

Roger's mother let him spend Sunday night with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Dahmens. The Talkingtons would pick him up Monday, she told him.

Talkington, 46, had found the going tough since bringing his family from Craig Colo., 10 months ago but they had stayed off relief. Two months ago Talkington got a job in a Blair factory. When he found the paint fumes there made him ill, he started looking for another job.

Talkington didn't get the job he sought in Fremont. So he headed the family's 1953 model car for the Dahmens' cabin. With him were Roger's mother, Dora, 29, and the boy's sister and four-half brothers.

As the car wheeled out of the industrial district onto the highway it collided with a semi-trailer truck. The car rolled into the ditch, the trailer on top of it.

The Talkingtons and their five children were killed.

Only Roger, at his grandparents' cabin, survived.

South Korea Reports Radioactivity Heavy

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—The South Korean Atomic Energy Agency reported today it had detected up to 16 times as much radioactivity as normally permissible for human beings in rain that fell Saturday.

The agency warned the public not to drink rain water—the second such warning in a week. It added that the radioactive content in the atmosphere over South Korea was five times as high as permissible for humans.

Briefing Tied To Current Berlin Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy met with his defense chiefs today to review military preparations of this country and its allies.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff brought the President up to date on military aspects of the Berlin crisis, following up a briefing Monday by Secretary of State Dean Rusk on the diplomatic side.

A broader survey of allied activities was arranged for the afternoon, with a direct report from Gen. Lauris Norstad, supreme commander of Allied Forces in Europe. McNamara, Lemnitzer and Rusk also were invited to sit in on that session.

Norstad likely will tell Kennedy how the Allies are answering the President's request for additional North Atlantic Treaty Organization strength to cope with the Berlin situation.

At his last news conference, Aug. 30, the chief executive was only mildly optimistic about the Allies response to his request to increase the Western defense system's military capability by 20 per cent.

Informants said Kennedy probably will meet with Soviet foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko on the Berlin situation late this week.

Kennedy, who returned Monday from a vacation at Newport, R.I., promptly got together with Rusk at the White House.

It was Rusk's first chance to give Kennedy a first-hand report since Rusk and Gromyko began talks at the United Nations 10 days ago on whether a peaceful solution to the dispute is possible.

In his three meetings with Gromyko Rusk sought to sound out the Soviet diplomat on points that might be taken up in broader East-West negotiations.

If Rusk believes he finds an opening in the Soviet position, the United States will be willing to enter a conference, probably at the foreign ministers level, to arrive at a negotiated settlement on Berlin.

The time for the Kennedy-Gromyko meeting presumably depends on the President's ability to find an opening in his schedule which Gromyko can accept.

716 Medics To Be Drafted

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department ordered today the drafting of 495 doctors, 154 dentists, and 67 veterinarians for the military services.

It said they were needed because of the general buildup of the Army, Navy and Air Force.

The veterinarians are being called to meet an increased demand for food inspection services, preventive medicine, and research and development, the Pentagon said.

This is the second time this year that the Defense Department has ordered a medical draft.

Last June 9 it issued a call for 815 doctors for the Navy and Air Force because of a lack of volunteers.

New U.N. Member Bids under Fire

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—U. N. delegates from both East and West were reported trying today to shelve action on membership applications of Mauritania and Outer Mongolia pending a decision on seating Red China.

The Security Council, which decides on new members, adjourned after 15 minutes Monday when it became clear the Soviet Union remained determined to veto Mauritania and that Nationalist China would turn thumbs down on Communist Outer Mongolia.

The plaintiffs state in constructing the new bridge the defendants caused the Royalton - Bloomfield Rd. to be raised approximately 10 feet in height for a distance of about 500 feet west from the intersection with the Circleville - Groveport Rd. It is said the Circleville - Groveport Rd. was also raised to the same height for a distance of 1,056 feet north of the bridge.

According to the Sarks, prior to the change in elevation the creek waters would overflow in time of flood onto bottom land north of the bridge.

Since the elevation of the roads, however, they charge the highways act as levees to prevent flood waters from spreading over the bottoms. This, combined with the angle of abutment of the new bridge causes the water to be forced "under the bridge in a more narrow channel, at a greater speed and velocity, causing eddies and whirlpools against the north-west bank of Little Walnut Creek in a westerly direction from the new bridge," according to the suit.

The petition further states the stream has now washed away the bank adjacent to a part of the plaintiffs' lands, creating inroads and depositing sand, gravel and debris on the Sark property. The approximately 17 acres involved have been labeled "unfit for cultivation" by the Sarks.

A judgement of $10,000 plus costs of the action, is asked against Commissioners Charles Morris Jr., Lloyd Melvin and Clyde Michel. The Sarks are being represented in the action by Lemuel B. Weldon and Emmitt L. Crist, attorneys.

Meg's Tony Gets a Title

LONDON (AP) — Buckingham Palace announced tonight Queen Elizabeth II has conferred an earldom on Anthony Armstrong-Jones, husband of her younger sister, Princess Margaret.

The announcement said the 31-year-old former photographer's title will be Viscount Linley and Earl of Snowdon. He will be known as the Earl of Snowdon.

The subsidiary title of Viscount Linley would go to the eldest son if any, of his marriage to Margaret—who is expecting her first baby late this month or early in November.

If the baby is a girl, she will be known as Lady Armstrong-Jones.

Princess Margaret henceforth will be called "Her Royal Highness the Princess Margaret, Countess of Snowdon."

16th Nuclear Explosion Is Fired by Russians

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Soviet Union has fired its 16th nuclear blast into the atmosphere since resuming atomic testing Sept. 1.

The Atomic Energy Commission announced Monday that the Soviet explosion had a yield "on the order of a megaton." This is equivalent to 1 million tons of TNT.

New Syria Premier Outlines Policies To Remain Neutral

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—Premier Mamoun Serraj today launched his revolutionary regime on a neutral course in foreign affairs. At home he propounded a policy of encouraging private ownership.

Thus he followed President Gamal Abdel Nasser's foreign policy of nonalignment in the cold war, while putting a brake on the United Arab Republic's nationalization program that stirred unrest in Syria.

The Syrian lawyer-politician outlined his views Monday night in his first news conference with foreign correspondents since the uprising that ousted the Syrian-Egyptian merger under the flag of the U.A.R.

Pledging a return to parliamentary democracy, he put a four-month time limit on the period he and his Cabinet would serve, adding: "I hope the time will be less."

Kuzbari termed the four-month period the maximum he would allow the new regime "to prepare for elections and parliamentary rule."

He said the Cabinet will discuss the possible return of firms nationalized last summer by decree of President Nasser. But Nasser's agrarian reform program, the premier said "will remain as is."

The government, which he termed the Syrian Arab Republic, will aim toward "a sound, democratic socialist life" which Kuzbari said will encourage private ownership, industrialization and foreign investment.

As one step toward a return to democratic principles, Kuzbari said the ruthless intelligence

A-Fugitives Seek Roles In New Home

CHICO, Calif. (AP) — Alvin Bauman, spokesman for the New York "nuclear fugitives," said to Chico Mayor Ross Lawler "We want to become a part of your city and to grow with it."

Bauman, 43, a concert pianist and former Columbia University professor, spoke for the 35 emigres fleeing what they consider a greater nuclear danger in New York.

The question is, how will they become a part of Chico?

Their group numbers such diversified talents as those of Teal Ames, former television actress; Gene Gordon, a sculptor; Jane Andrews, teacher; Lou Oles, a free-lance trumpet player; and pianist Bauman.

Mayor Lawler was optimistic about the group's chances for settling and becoming useful citizens.

He said, "They've all rented homes here. We even understand they've made deposits in our local bank. So you know they aren't a bunch of beatniks. Yes sir—I think it's going to be all right."

If worse comes to worse in finding employment, maybe some of the emigrants could even find jobs at the nuclear missile launching center a few miles outside Chico.

Radioactive Birds Awaited in England

SEVENOAKS, England (AP)—A British bird expert said today thousands of feathered migrants made radioactive by Soviet nuclear tests in the arctic will fly into Britain this month.

The ornithologist, Dr. James Harrison said the migrants are mostly wading birds which customarily winter along British rivers and marshes. He added that many of those poisoned by the nuclear fallout will die.

Dr. Harrison and his son operate a bird laboratory and have spent years assessing the damage done to flying wildlife by nuclear tests.

agency once headed by Col. Abdul Hamid Serraj had been closed and its agents arrested. He said Serraj, whose secret police once held Syria in a tight grip, was placed under house arrest the day of the coup but slipped away. Revolutionary agents tracked him to a secret hideaway Sunday night and took him into custody a second time "to put an end to his subversive activities," an announcement said.

Serraj resigned as a U.A.R. vice president and fled from Cairo to Syria two days before the revolt in an apparent break with Nasser. He long had been considered Nasser's strongest advocate in Syria.

Cleveland Firm Successful Bidder for Knollwood Bonds

Fahey, Clark & Co., a Cleveland firm, was the successful bidder for the purchase of bonds to finance Knollwood Village County Sewer District, Pickaway County Commissioners announced yesterday afternoon after examining the bids submitted.

The northern Ohio company entered a bid of 3% per cent rate of interest on the $45,395 bond package with a premium return of $264.

J. A. White & Co. was second lowest bidder on a proposal of 3 3/4 per cent rate of interest and a $542 premium return.

Only one local firm, the Second National Bank, entered the bidding. The bank offered a 3 3/4 per cent interest rate and a $425 premium return.

CONSTRUCTION of the district sewer system is expected to start soon. The sale of bonds yesterday will provide funds to construct eight-inch diameter sewer lines, properly spaced manholes and a sewage treatment facility.

The Commissioners studied the bids at length before announcing their decision.

In other action, the Commission approved the plat of the four-acre Floral Acres Gardens subdivision submitted by developer Louis Gump.

Approval by a unanimous vote was also given to a request by Auditor Marvin Rhoades that she and Deputy Auditor Donna L. Foreman be permitted to attend a meeting of area auditors tomorrow in Logan. Cost of the trip was estimated at $15.

J. Leo Hedges and Rojer Bower, deputy auditors, and Mrs. Rhoades also received approval to attend the Southwestern District Auditor's Association conference Oct.

Talkington didn't get the job he sought in Fremont. So he headed the family's 1953 model car for the Dahmens modes: cabin. With him were Roger's mother, Dora, 29, and the boy's sister and four-half brothers.

As the car wheeled out of the industrial district onto the highway it collided with a semi-trailer truck. The car rolled into the ditch, the trailer on top of it.

The Talkingtons and their five children were killed.

Only Roger, at his grandparents' cabin, survived.

Knight Slated To Name Nixon 'Bribery' Aide

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Goodwin J. Knight says he'll name Richard Nixon's alleged job-offering emissary Wednesday.

One man who thinks he'll be named at Knight's news conference issued his denial in advance.

J. Howard Edgerton, a Los Angeles financier said: "I have never been an emissary of Dick Nixon on any matter in my entire life." He said he believes he is the man Knight will name, but did not elaborate.

Knight's revelation will come one week after Nixon announced he would oppose the former governor for the Republican state house nomination in 1962.

Knight charged that a friend of the former vice president had offered any job in the state if Knight would quit the race.

Nixon called the charge "false and libelous on its face."

Harry Farrell, political writer for the San Jose (Calif.) News, wrote Monday that Edgerton would not confirm nor deny he called Knight Sept. 7 — the day Knight says the offer was made. But Farrell said Edgerton flatly denied he was Nixon's emissary.

Briefing Tied To Current Berlin Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy met with his defense chiefs today to review military preparations of this country and its allies.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff brought the President up to date on military aspects of the Berlin crisis, following up a briefing Monday by Secretary of State Dean Rusk on the diplomatic side.

A broader survey of allied activities was arranged for the afternoon, with a direct report from Gen. Lauris Norstad, supreme commander of Allied Forces in Europe. McNamara, Lemnitzer and Rusk also were invited to sit in on that session.

Norstad likely will tell Kennedy how the Allies are answering the President's request for additional North Atlantic Treaty Organization strength to cope with the Berlin situation.

At his last news conference, Aug. 30, the chief executive was only mildly optimistic about the Allies response to his request to increase the Western defense system's military capability by 20 per cent.

Informants said Kennedy probably will meet with Soviet foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko on the Berlin situation late this week.

Kennedy, who returned Monday from a vacation at Newport, R.I., promptly got together with Rusk at the White House.

It was Rusk's first chance to give Kennedy a first-hand report since Rusk and Gromyko began talks at the United Nations 10 days ago on whether a peaceful solution to the dispute is possible.

In his three meetings with Gromyko Rusk sought to sound out the Soviet diplomat on points that might be taken up in broader East-West negotiations.

If Rusk believes he finds an opening in the Soviet position, the United States will be willing to enter a conference, probably at the foreign ministers level, to arrive at a negotiated settlement on Berlin.

The time for the Kennedy-Gromyko meeting presumably depends on the President's ability to find an opening in his schedule which Gromyko can accept.

716 Medics To Be Drafted

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department ordered today the drafting of 495 doctors, 154 dentists, and 67 veterinarians for the military services.

It said they were needed because of the general buildup of the Army, Navy and Air Force.

The veterinarians are being called to meet an increased demand for food inspection services, preventive medicine, and research and development, the Pentagon said.

This is the second time this year that the Defense Department has ordered a medical draft.

Last June 9 it issued a call for 815 doctors for the Navy and Air Force because of a lack of volunteers.

New U.N. Member Bids under Fire

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — U. N. delegates from both East and West were reported trying today to shelve action on membership applications of Mauritania and Outer Mongolia pending a decision on seating Red China.

The Security Council, which decides on new members, adjourned after 15 minutes Monday when it became clear the Soviet Union remained determined to veto Mauritania and that Nationalist China would turn thumbs down on Communist Outer Mongolia.

Family of 7 Dies in Crash; Boy, 11, Left

FREMONT, Neb. (AP)—"Why can't people drive better? Why can't they be more careful?" Roger Lewis, 11, stubbornly held back tears as he spoke.

"I don't know who was to blame," he said slowly. "But someone must have been careless, or they'd have come for me and we'd all be together again."

His grandmother laid her hand on his shoulder. They sat together on an old studio couch beneath a tree, both thinking of his future.

Roger Lewis and his family had driven up Sunday from their home in Blair, a little Missouri River town 25 miles east of Fremont. Roger's stepfather, Dallas Talkington, was going to apply for a job Monday at a concrete products plant here.

Roger's mother let him spend Sunday night with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Dahmens. The Talkingtons would pick him up Monday, she told him.

Talkington, 46, had found the gong tough since bringing his family from Craig Colo., 10 months ago but they had stayed off relief. Two months ago Talkington got a job in a Blair factory. When he found the paint fumes there made him ill, he started looking for another job.

Talkington didn't get the job he sought in Fremont. So he headed the family's 1953 model car for the Dahmens modes: cabin. With him were Roger's mother, Dora, 29, and the boy's sister and four-half brothers.

As the car wheeled out of the industrial district onto the highway it collided with a semi-trailer truck. The car rolled into the ditch, the trailer on top of it.

Merchants Group Eyes Pumpkin Show

The coming Pumpkin Show will be a center of attention when the Retail Merchants Division of the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce meets 8 a. m. Thursday at Benny's Court & Main Restaurant for a breakfast session.

Various Pumpkin Show promotions will be on the agenda for discussion. Nat Lefko, division chairman, said all merchants are invited.

South Korea Reports Radioactivity Heavy

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—The South Korean Atomic Energy Agency reported today it had detected up to 16 times as much radioactivity as normally permissible for human beings in rain that fell Saturday.

DEFERMENT ENDS—M/Sgt. Harold F. Lehnert, who was deferred from military service in 1940 because he had three children, poses with his family in Monticello, Wis., now that he has 11 children and things are different. He's been called to service with Company B of Wisconsin's 32nd Division. Lehnert, 46, joined the National Guard in 1933.

Stock Mart Prices Show Quiet Decline

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market declined early this afternoon in quiet trading as the United Auto Workers Union went on strike against Ford Motor Co.

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather outlook:

A low pressure system over Georgia pushed rain northward into the southern and eastern counties of Ohio Monday night. Skies, however, remained clear over Northwest Ohio.

Early morning temperatures were lowest in the northwest, with Toledo reporting 39 and Findlay 42. Columbus had 44, Belleaire 46 and Cincinnati 49.

This forecast is to center today over the eastern half of the state, but will end tonight.

Wednesday will be fair west and cloudy east, and afternoon temperatures will be a little warmer.

of 60 stocks at noon was off .50 at 252.10 with industrials off 1.30, rails up .10 and utilities unchanged.

Losses of key stocks went generally from fractions to a point or so. Wider losses were taken by some higher-priced or more volatile issues. A number of pivotal issues were unchanged.

The list assumed a lower tendency from the start and widened its decline slightly as Ford workers began to walk off from their jobs even in advance of the strike deadline.

Ford, slightly higher at the start, fell more than a point before recovering part of its loss. The trend was generally lower among steels, chemicals, rubbers, aircrafts, nonferrous metals, drugs and oils. Tobaccos advanced and utilities were steady.

The Ford strike was discounted enough by the key industrials so that no great shock was displayed. The averages were depressed, however, by DuPont's loss of about 2 and a drop of around a point by Eastman Kodak.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 7.55 at 697.28. Prices on the American Stock Exchange were mixed in fairly active trading.

Surplus Crop Storage Costs $633 Million

Ag Agency Reveals Increase in Fees To Preserve Commodities

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department reports it cost the government $633,477,000 to handle, store and transport surplus farm products held by it under farm price supports during the fiscal year that ended June 30.

This compared with $610,796,000 the previous fiscal year. Covered were such commodities as wheat, corn, cotton, other grains, tobacco, dairy products, peanuts, soybeans, flaxseed, dry beans and strategic materials obtained in exchange for farm products.

The Kennedy Administration seeks to reduce these costs by cutting production of feed grains and wheat below requirements. Deficits in production would be met through release and sale of government surplus stocks.

The department also estimates the actual book value of the commodities stored under price support programs is $5,184,179,000, compared with the government's investment of $7,038,723,000. The agency figures that it will have to take a loss equivalent to the difference, $1,854,544,000.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department says the nation's broiler industry has been slow to adjust to what the department called this year's price debacle.

It said that since May, broiler prices to producers have been at or below the cost of production and at the lowest level of 20 years' of record keeping on prices.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department reported Monday that for the first time in history one-third the world's population is free from fear of hunger.

This part of the population resides, it said, in 30 industrialized nations in the temperate northern area. They now have the science, technology, financial resources, management ability and dynamism to assure their food supply on existing resources, the department said.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Lessons in French, German, Italian, Spanish and Japanese are being repeated over a loudspeaker periodically each day in the Intelligence Division of the 301st Bomber Wing at Lockbourne Air Force Base.

Lt. Col. W. L. Stevenson, division chief, says it's intended to teach the men language phrases useful when they serve overseas. By learning language characteristics now, he thinks they will find it easier to learn the tongue of the nation in which they serve.

Eventually the program is to be expanded to include teaching selected phrases to combat aircrews for use in emergency situations in foreign lands, Stevenson says.

Ozzie and Harriet Add New Face to Their Nelson Family

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—There is a new member of the Nelson family, expanding the foursome to a quintet.

Added to the longtime team of Ozzie and Harriet, David and Ricky, is Mrs. David, also known as June Blair. She is a lovely green-eyed redhead with a Marilyn Monroe-like background and a figure to match.

Viewers of the "Ozzie and Harriet" show on ABC will be seeing June as David's wife.

"The first show has us moving into our new apartment," June reported. "It was decided not to make a big thing of our marriage in the show, since most people know we're married, anyway."

She added that her introduction to the show doesn't mean that her life's work is cut out for her.

"I expect to be in only one out of four chapters," she said. "I want to keep my own career going, too." She has a separate agent and press agent from David's.

Her official biography tells: Born in San Francisco, orphaned in infancy. Adopted at 4, returned to the orphanage at 6. Adopted at 7 by an unkind family. Ran away at 14, transferred to another family who insisted she "earn her keep."

Discovered by photographer at 16 became model and movie extra. Television hits, contracts at Warners and Fox. Finally an important role with Ernest Borgnine in "The Rabbit Trap."

"That's when David saw me," June said. "He asked his father to keep an eye out for a role I could do on their show. One came along and that's how we met." Wedding bells rang last May 20, and then June became a circus wife. Their honeymoon was largely spent traveling the country with the Flying Viennas, an aerialist act in which David stars.

This summer the act played fairs and other shows in such places as San Mateo, Santa Rosa and Pacific Ocean Park in California, Anchorage, Alaska; Oklahoma City, Salt Lake City, Springfield, Ill., and Monticello, Iowa.

Conference Is Sought On New Cincy Stadium

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Hamilton County commissioners have invited the Cincinnati City Council to a conference about building a new riverfront stadium. Council last week voted against inviting the commissioners to a discussion about building a stadium to replace Crosley Fields, home of the Cincinnati Reds.

CCA Official Due To Retire

CHICAGO — Ralph E. White will retire December 31 as vice president of Container Corporation of America after 38 years of service with the company. It was announced by Wesley M. Dixon, chairman and chief executive officer.

Until his retirement, White will continue as Division vice president in charge of the company's shipping container operations at Cincinnati, and Anderson, Ind.

White began his business career in 1923 with the Midwest Box Company at Anderson. In 1930 he became supervisor of the order, specification, and sales service department at Container Corporation's Anderson plant. In the following years, he served successively as salesman, sales manager, and general manager at Anderson.

He was appointed division general manager in 1954, with responsibility for the Anderson, Cleveland and Cincinnati operations. In 1955 he was elected vice president.

Mr. and Mrs. White will continue to make their home in Anderson.

Surplus Crop Storage Costs $633 Million

Ag Agency Reveals Increase in Fees To Preserve Commodities

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department reports it cost the government $633,477,000 to handle, store and transport surplus farm products held by it under farm price supports during the fiscal year that ended June 30.

This compared with $610,796,000 the previous fiscal year. Covered were such commodities as wheat, corn, cotton, other grains, tobacco, dairy products, peanuts, soybeans, flaxseed, dry beans and strategic materials obtained in exchange for farm products.

The Kennedy Administration seeks to reduce these costs by cutting production of feed grains and wheat below requirements. Deficits in production would be met through release and sale of government surplus stocks.

The department also estimates the actual book value of the commodities stored under price support programs is $5,184,179,000, compared with the government's investment of $7,038,723,000. The agency figures that it will have to take a loss equivalent to the difference, $1,854,544,000.

Eye on Rayburn's Gavel

Speculation continues on who will succeed Sam Rayburn as speaker of the United States House of Representatives when he steps down from that exalted (second in line to succeed to the presidency) post. After 50 years in the House his career is drawing to a close.

The natural successor would be Majority Leader John McCormack of Massachusetts. He took over when the Texan went home to nurse an ailing back. But hints are floating around Washington like bubbles from a soap-pipe that President Kennedy would find McCormack unacceptable.

A likely choice, according to some Washington correspondents, is Richard Bolling. He is from Missouri, almost the same age as the President, a favorite choice of Rayburn and liked by Mr. Kennedy.

Another whose name pops up prominently is Rep. Carl Albert of Oklahoma. He gets along well with other congressmen and currently is the majority whip in the House.

Others mentioned include Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas, Francis Walter of Pennsylvania and Hale Boggs of Louisiana, in each case because they head powerful committees and would have considerable strength to exercise if they want the post.

If McCormack wants the job badly, though, the stage will be set for a knock-down-drag-out of the kind Massachusetts knows so well. Both Mr. Kennedy and McCormack being from the Bay State, such an embroglio could be quite interesting.

She's Delighted by Red Ink

By BUD SPRINGER
(For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK (AP)—Gentlemen: Do department store statements make your wife nervous?

Does she hide them from you until pay day?

Does she try to disappear while you figure them out?

Does she point to a figure nervously and say: "Cross off that $17.60. I took those gloves back. And they were very nice about it."

Does she think the beginning and end of paying bills is a 10-minute bawling out from you, to be forgotten immediately?

Buster, we are in the same league.

And it is worse than you think. Worse than at least one large New York store realizes. The store thinks it owes me around $300. It said so right on the last statement.

That was the great awakening. You and I and that store all know that no department store ever owes any husband.

Going on that premise, I conducted a full-scale investigation and learned that my wife doesn't understand what the bill says. She doesn't know that a store can mark down on one bill what we owe (black ink) and what I have paid or what she has returned (red ink). It was just so many numbers to her—and she blamed her high school math teacher.

Your wife probably has the same failing. And I'd advise you not to teach her differently.

Take my case. We bought a couch and not wanting to get into our usual troubles with so much money involved I left a check, telling my charmer to give it to the man who delivered the couch.

The store, sinking in a quicksand of slips left behind by these ladies when they return gloves, etc., credited me with the amount of the check (red ink) but forgot to charge me for the sofa (black ink). That left me way ahead.

The mistake was explaining to her the difference between red ink and black ink. Now she figures out red ink very well and is delighted. She intend to spend her balance (it has ceased to be "our" balance) forthwith.

Probably the best thing would be to lock her up when I come to work.

Policy Must Be Reviewed

President Kennedy's speech before the United Nations General Assembly left the impression that the United States is not bound to man - of - the - street practical principle, that it took a pragmatic, view of the problems that face us. This impression is more due to language than to substance.

Our basic principle is freedom and as regards that we make it necessary therefore to review the nature and trend of our foreign policy. The President had to adopt much of the Eisenhower policy because there must be some continuity. His own operations inside and outside the State Department are too complex for effective results. There are too many prima donnas, too many cordon bleu cooks; in simple English, too many stars playing the same role.

The time has come to check this and to let some of the brilliant talents who have concentrated in the realm of foreign affairs, to function cooperatively without competition. Some of those who seemed so promising at the beginning of the Kennedy Administration are no longer very important.

One of the weaknesses of the hydra-headed State Department is that each man of talent pulls his own way and supports his own particular favorites among the great men of the world. For instance, Sukarno of Indonesia seems to be a favorite but without much justification. The Soviet "New Times" as recently as June 14, 1961 had an article entitled, "Our friend Sukarno." It is a warm article and it opens on a sweet note:

"When I decided to make a fourth round - the world trip, I was aware that I would be spending my birthday, June 6, abroad. I therefore planned my itinerary in such a way as to be in the Soviet Union on that day. I did so because on my birthday I wanted to be in a country where I would feel at home, just as if I were among my own family."

Now, this Sukarno is supposed to be a neutral. He is supposed to be non-aligned. However, in this article he is "at home" in Soviet Russia, "just as if I were among my own family."

Sukarno never said in a speech that far. He only comes to our States. His neutrality does not go far. He only comes to our country to get aid, a hand - out, or to tell our President to make his own peace with Khrushchev on Khrushchev's terms.

Our policy ought to be that no aid should go to such as Sukarno, Tito, Castro, Nkrumah, directly or indirectly. Our policy ought to be that those who are not for us are against us, that a neutral is one who is just as much in favor of us as of Soviet Russia. Sukarno said at the Kremlin dinner:

"We have come to the conclusion that the progress of newly-liberated countries is being impeded by capitalism, colonialism and imperialism. We, that is, the Afro-Asian nations, have to contend with many difficulties, and we carefully study, the attitude of other countries toward us. Our eyes are turned, first and foremost, to the Soviet Union because we know that it wants freedom for all nations that have proclaimed independence."

When a man who deliberately uttered this historic lie visited the White House to instruct the President on how he should conduct himself, he should have been told, by the porter, to go home and tend to his own Red knitting. Let him sit on Khrushchev's knee!

The President of the United States is alone responsible for the conduct of foreign policy. He alone must go before the voters to defend his course. Neither the Secretary of State nor the Under-Secretary of State, nor the Ambassador to the United Nations holds a position of equal responsibility.

He must therefore reorganize and simplify the formulation and conduct of our foreign policy. This needs to be done immediately because what with Chester Bowles arranging his own East Asian policy and "Soapy" Williams running all over Africa making promises which neither he nor the President can carry forward, we shall find ourselves in increasing difficulties.

Admitting that Adlai Stevenson is doing remarkably well in the United Nations, a difficulty arises because of Stevenson's prominence and significance. The assumption is too general that it is Adlai Stevenson and not the President or the Secretary of State who determines the foreign policy of the United States. This must be corrected if the President is to maintain his position.

2 U.S. Judgeships For Ohio Erased

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nominations for U.S. District Court judgeships in Ohio made by President Kennedy were, in effect, wiped out when Congress adjourned last week.

Still in the Senate Judiciary Committee when Congress quit were the nominations of Ohioans John Weld Peck for the Southern District and Ben C. Green for the Northern District, both new positions. The President may make recess appointments and then re-submit the nominations for action by the Senate when the new session convenes in January.

LAFF-A-DAY

"It's not for me.—It's for the philodendron."

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

THE DAY AFTER a sedate school teacher bought a second-hand sedan she drove it back to the dealer's yard.

"What's wrong?" asked the dealer anxiously.

"Nothing at all," said the teacher sweetly. "I just want to return these things for the dear little old lady you told me owned the car before you sold it to me. She left this plug of tobacco in the glove compartment, and this half-empty bottle of gin under the seat."

A young man once found a few dollar bills on the sidewalk. From that time on he never lifted his eyes from the ground while walking. In the course of thirty years he accumulated 25,916 buttons, 52,172 pins, seven pennies, a bent back, and a sour, miserly disposition.

He lost the glories of the light, the smiles of his friends, the beauties of nature, and the opportunity to enjoy his fellow man and spread happiness.

Inside You and Yours

By BURTON H. FERN, M.D.
Sirens wailed as glaring headlights caught two lads in the act of stealing an expensive sports car!

The thieves, Ace and Joe, were only 13-year-olds. Ace had two previous arrests.

The low-rent housing development where his family lived bred a tough crowd. But, next to Ace, the others seemed like angels.

Ace craved kicks and thrills.

His code: "Anything Goes!" To win his 11-year-old sweetheart, he simply brass-knuckled the competition out of existence.

He hated the world for not giving him a baby's care with a vulture's freedom. He was too busy for playgrounds or neighborhood centers. That was for suckers!

Pop and Mom strangled Ace's conscience. Neither loved nor wanted him. Mom would praise, nag, commend and condemn until he felt like an emotional punching bag. How could Ace tell right from wrong when Mom couldn't?

Ace found a family—the Second Street Hawks. They looked out for him and he looked out for them. It was as simple as that.

Joe's parents were wealthy. But he couldn't find any more love in a $40,000 mansion than Ace could in that small apartment.

He saw his mother shortchange the paperboy. He heard his father boast about bribing the traffic officer who caught him speeding. How could they preach honesty to Joe?

And now the police were phoning his home to tell the news. His parents would keep asking "Why?" And they would blame Ace. They would never realize that they were guilty, too.

Your boy won't grow into an Ace or Joe if he knows that he's loved and feels proud to be a member of a family that believes in honesty. With this security, he can accept punishment for doing wrong and grow into a responsible citizen.

Dr. Fern's mailbox is wide open for letters from readers. While he cannot undertake to answer individual letters, he will use readers' questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Fern in care of this newspaper.

The Business World

NEW YORK (AP)—Profits are picking up speed in their six-month climb from their recession low. The bulls hope this foretells a profit explosion.

The bears think the gains will fall short of that. But early returns on the third quarter, now starting to flow in, show average net income after taxes running ahead of the year-ago figure for the first time this year.

Stock traders will watch the profit trend closely, since it reflects both the extent of the business recovery and the success of management in coping with rising costs and with squeezes on profit margins.

The first half of the year, despite a good pickup between the second quarter and the first, showed earnings still trailing 1960.

But early returns for the first nine months indicate that profits should pull even with the year-ago figure. This gives the whole of 1961 a good chance to top the 1960 returns.

The early returns so far are almost exclusively from corporations whose fiscal year ends before the calendar one. Thus the nine months results go back a month or so into 1960 and cover more recession time than will those firms using the calendar year. The recession low commonly is put at March.

But the nonconformists also report a third quarter that doesn't include September when business as a whole usually picks up.

Third quarter returns of 74 corporations reporting so far show 50 of them doing better this year than in the summer months of 1960. Four operated in the red this year, against six a year ago. As a group the 74 report profits of $138,558,000, compared with $126,706,000 for the same companies a year ago, or a gain of 9.3 per cent.

These figures exclude the three months report by giant American Telephone & Telegraph. Add these in and you have 75 companies with total profits of $470,598,000 against $444,739,000 but the percentage falls to 5.8 since the Bell System was doing a lot better a year ago than were many of the other 74.

Among the other gainers in the third quarter this year were department stores, office equipment farm equipment and some machinery and tool companies.

The third quarter gains over last year stand out against second quarter results, which still trailed 1960 by 2 per cent, and the first quarter returns, which ran 20 per cent behind the previous year.

Fewer corporations have reported so far on their first nine months. A.T.&T. is among the missing. But of the 52 which have, 29 trail the year-ago figures, and five operated at a loss against three in the previous year. (The nine months results are from a largely different group than those reporting for the quarter.)

The 52 reporting at the three-quarter mark of their fiscal year show net income as a group of $188,578,000, compared with $177,560,000 in the like 1960 period. The gain is 6.2 per cent.

In the first half of the year profits were trailing 1960 by 12 per cent, a better second quarter unable to offset the big drop in the first three months of 1961.

The first nine months of 1960 had trailed 1959 returns by 2 per cent.

The scattering of early returns to date is far from the last word on the profit trend, which won't be available for some weeks. But the steady climb from the first quarter low point strengthens the hopes of those who expect earnings to go on increasing in spite of rising costs in many industries.

Eye on Rayburn's Gavel

Speculation continues on who will succeed Sam Rayburn as speaker of the United States House of Representatives when he steps down from that exalted (second in line to succeed to the presidency) post. After 50 years in the House his career is drawing to a close.

The natural successor would be Majority Leader John McCormack of Massachusetts. He took over when the Texan went home to nurse an ailing back. But hints are floating around Washington like bubbles from a soap-pipe that President Kennedy would find McCormack unacceptable.

A likely choice, according to some Washington correspondents, is Richard Bolling. He is from Missouri, almost the same age as the President, a favorite choice of Rayburn and liked by Mr. Kennedy.

Another whose name pops up prominently is Rep. Carl Albert of Oklahoma. He gets along well with other congressmen and currently is the majority whip in the House.

Others mentioned include Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas, Francis Walter of Pennsylvania and Hale Boggs of Louisiana, in each case because they head powerful committees and would have considerable strength to exercise if they want the post.

If McCormack wants the job badly, though, the stage will be set for a knock-down-drag-out of the kind Massachusetts knows so well. Both Mr. Kennedy and McCormack being from the Bay State, such an embroglio could be quite interesting.

She's Delighted by Red Ink

By BUD SPRINGER
(For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK (AP)—Gentlemen: Do department store statements make your wife nervous?

Does she hide them from you until pay day?

Does she try to disappear while you figure them out?

Does she point to a figure nervously and say: "Cross off that $17.60. I took those gloves back. And they were very nice about it."

Does she think the beginning and end of paying bills is a 10-minute bawling out from you, to be forgotten immediately?

Buster, we are in the same league.

And it is worse than you think. Worse than at least one large New York store realizes. The store thinks it owes me around $300. It said so right on the last statement.

That was the great awakening. You and I and that store all know that no department store ever owes any husband.

Going on that premise, I conducted a full-scale investigation and learned that my wife doesn't understand what the bill says. She doesn't know that a store can mark down on one bill what we owe (black ink) and what I have paid or what she has returned (red ink). It was just so many numbers to her—and she blamed her high school math teacher.

Your wife probably has the same failing. And I'd advise you to teach her differently.

Take my case. We bought a couch and not wanting to get into our usual troubles with so much money involved I left a check, telling my charmer to give it to the man who delivered the couch.

The store, sinking in a quicksand of slips left behind by these ladies when they return gloves, etc., credited me with the amount of the check (red ink) but forgot to charge me for the sofa (black ink). That left me way ahead.

The mistake was explaining to her the difference between red ink and black ink. Now she figures out red ink very well and is delighted. She intends to spend her balance (it has ceased to be "our" balance) forthwith.

Probably the best thing would be to lock her up when I come to work.

Policy Must Be Reviewed

President Kennedy's speech before the United Nations General Assembly left the impression that the United States was not bound to man-of-the-street practical principle, that it took a pragmatic, view of the problems that face us. This impression is more due to language than to substance.

Our basic principle is freedom and as regards that we make necessary therefore to review the nature and trend of our foreign policy. The President had to adopt much of the Eisenhower policy because there must be some continuity. His own operations inside and outside the State Department are too complex for effective results. There are too many prima donnas, too many cordon bleu cooks; in simple English, too many stars playing the same role.

The time has come to check this and to let some of the brilliant talents who have concentrated in the realm of foreign affairs, to function cooperatively without competition. Some of those who seemed so promising at the beginning of the Kennedy Administration are no longer very important.

One of the weaknesses of the Hydra-headed State Department is that each man of talent pulls his own way and supports his own particular favorites among the great men of the world. For instance, Sukarno of Indonesia seems to be a favorite but without much justification. The Soviet "New Times" as recently as June 14, 1961 had an article entitled, "Our friend Sukarno." It is a warm article and it opens on a sweet note:

"When I decided to make a fourth round - the world trip, I was aware that I would be spending my birthday, June 6, abroad. I therefore planned my itinerary such a way as to be in the Soviet Union on that day. I did so because on my birthday I wanted to be in a country where I would feel at home, just as if I were among my own family."

Now, this Sukarno is supposed to be a neutral. He is supposed to be non-aligned. However, in this article he is "at home" in Soviet Russia, "just as if I were among my own family."

Sukarno never said in a speech that far. He only comes to our States. His neutrality does not go far. He only comes to our country to get aid, a hand-out, or to tell our President to make his own peace with Khrushchev's terms.

Our policy ought to be that no aid should go to such as Sukarno, Tito, Castro, Nkrumah, directly or indirectly. Our policy ought to be that those who are not for us are against us, that a neutral is one who is just as much in favor of us as of Soviet Russia. Sukarno said at the Kremlin dinner:

"We have come to the conclusion that the progress of newly-liberated countries is being impeded by capitalism, colonialism and imperialism. We, that is, the Afro-Asian nations, have to contend with many difficulties, and we carefully study, the attitude of other countries toward us. Our eyes are turned, first and foremost, to the Soviet Union because we know that it wants freedom for all nations that have proclaimed independence."

When a man who deliberately uttered this historic lie visited the White House to instruct the President on how he should conduct himself, he should have been told, by the porter, to go home and tend to his own Red knitting. Let him sit on Khrushchev's knee!

The President of the United States is alone responsible for the conduct of foreign policy. He alone must go before the voters to defend his course. Neither the Secretary of State nor the Under-Secretary of State, nor the Ambassador to the United Nations holds a position of equal responsibility. He must therefore reorganize and simplify the formulation and conduct of our foreign policy. This needs to be done immediately because what with Chester Bowles arranging his own East Asian policy and "Soapy" Williams running all over Africa making promises which neither he nor the President can carry forward, we shall find ourselves in increasing difficulties.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

THE DAY AFTER a sedate school teacher bought a second-hand sedan she drove it back to the dealer's yard.

"What's wrong?" asked the dealer anxiously.

"Nothing at all," said the teacher sweetly. "I just want to return these things for the dear little old lady you told me owned the car before you sold it to me. She left this plug of tobacco in the glove compartment, and this half-empty bottle of gin under the seat."

A young man once found a few dollar bills on the sidewalk. From that time on he never lifted his eyes from the ground while walking. In the course of thirty years he accumulated 25,916 buttons, 52,172 pins, seven pennies, a bent back, and a sour, miserly disposition.

He lost the glories of the light, the smiles of his friends, the beauties of nature, and the opportunity to enjoy his fellow man and spread happiness.

Hope, Crosby Off On 'Road' Again

Der Bingle and Old Ski-Nose clown on set of their new motion picture.

By ARMAND ARCHERD
Central Press Association
Correspondent

LONDON — This global film-making is getting more complicated every year.

For example, here we are with Bing Crosby and Bob Hope in jolly old England filming — "Road to Hong Kong". Of course, the title may soon change to jibe with today's headlines I to read "Road to the Moon".

So where next, we ask the boys, will the next "Road" take them? There's only one out-of-the-way place left and that is "The Road to Hollywood". It would be a novelty to see movie companies returning to the fatherland for shooting.

Bob Hope and Crosby are having a ball in Blighty. They are carrying on in this film like a couple of kids. Maybe it's because they are happy to be working together again after such a long break. Maybe it's because they love London — and maybe it's because the British also love them. Such fan adulation as is showered on the boys reminds one of the "good old days" in glamorous Hollywood.

Bob Hope picked us up in his Rolls Royce to drive to the studio. And believe us, Valentin never had it so good. People at every corner wave, shouted hellos, tossing aside all British reserve to greet Bob.

This is Hope's birthplace, and he said, "I hated to leave here. I was only four years old. But, I must admit, I didn't leave on my own. They may have told you. I was marked for export."

As we drove through the colorful English countryside en route to the studios, Hope breathed deeply, said, "Smell that fresh air — no smog. Maybe fresh in L. A. — we should switch from gasoline to petrol!"

The dressing room building where Croz and Rapid Robert headquarter looks like an ancient Shakespearean theater. Their rooms are as sumptuous as a king's. Der Bingle was on hand to greet us.

I don't know whether they were trying to outdo each other in the youth department. But both were so bubbly and anxious to work, we wondered who had taken a heavier dose of "brotherly love" pills.

Der Bingle was wearing one of his noisier sports coats, his slacks were rolled up at the cuff, and as he hummed a few bars, he literally tapped out the tune as nimbly as a chorus boy.

"I don't know what I'm going to do with this boy," said Hope, pointing to Bing's new waistline, a very trim 32. "Can't use any more of those 'flab' jokes. And now he's quit being a producer and returned to work — in pictures, that is!" Bing picked up his straw hat and cane, led Bob into the start of a number called "Team work", which will open the film, showing the two together again.

Some of the crazy gimmicks in this number include Bing and Bob dancing a la Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire; Bing giving Bob a rickshaw ride on a coffee table; firing incense on an idol; lighting a hookah pipe, and, not in the script, collapsing on the floor in laughter at their own goof of one line. They were like a couple kids again. The British film workers were in hysterics, too.

Between rehearsals the boys huffed and puffed and said to each other, "What are we trying to prove?"

The season's only young for both. Der Bingle and Old Ski Nose told us of their plans for the future and they make a teen-age idol look like a slacker.

Croz will keep his pipes in shape by waxing several albums (good old standards which you and I can hum), then reports back to Hollywood where he'll also sing the western favorites which tie up sequences in a studio's extravaganza, "How the West Was Won".

In addition, Bing will catch up with his radio show tapings with Rosemary Clooney and he has a number of TV shows to do for the new season. And he'll also be busy welcoming the stork again this fall.

Rapid Robert, not to be outdone, will cut one TV show during the "Road" filming, then heads to Africa on safari to shoot another TV'er. And he has plans to shoot another movie in Lucille Ball in March, "Critic's Choice".

Why so particularly happy herein in England, we asked Croz? In addition to the pleasantness on "Road", he admitted, "did you ever see so many great racetracks in one place?" And, he added, "How about these great, green golf courses?"

Crosby turned to fellow golfer Hope, and shouted, "Hey, boy, let's wind this shot up fast and get out there and start betting that latex in the air!"

Fore, guv'nor!

Oberlin City Council OKs New Income Tax
OBERLIN, Ohio (AP) — A one per cent municipal income tax was given unanimous approval by City Council Monday night. To go into effect Jan. 1, the tax will raise $100,000 annually for a capital improvements program.

Philip Zahm, an ex-councilman and leader of a group opposing the tax, said circulation of petitions demanding that the tax be placed on the November, 1962, ballot would be started today.

Navy Seabee Units Form New Battalion

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Twelve Navy Seabee divisions from Ohio and Western Pennsylvania have been formed into Mobile Construction Battalion 20. They will operate for the first time as a unit in two weeks of training at Davisville, R. E., starting Oct. 22.

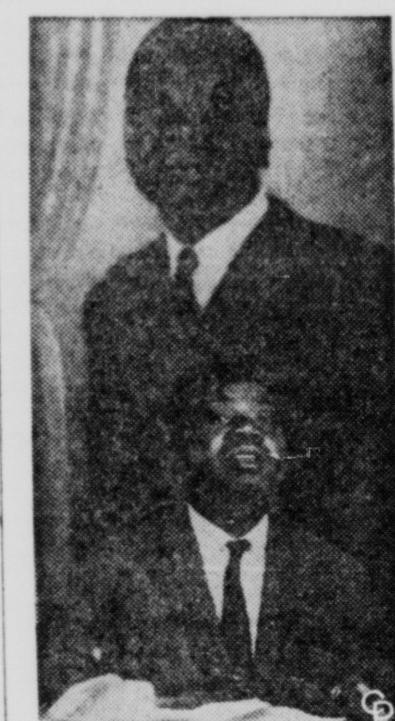

Representatives of the 12 reserve outfits got a preliminary briefing here Sunday on their formation into a unit of more useable size if needed in a national emergency.

The two-week training for 350 to 365 reservists will be the first of its kind in the Fourth Naval District, headquarter in Philadelphia. It is designed to make the battalion ready to put to sea on three days notice and operate effectively.

Before this, the Seabee reservists training was mostly an individual or division level.

The Seabees are Navy construction men who land on enemy territory shortly after the first combat troops and set up airfields, supply depots and other facilities necessary to support the troop.

The nine Ohio division represented at Sunday's meeting were 4-16 of Cincinnati, 4-17 and 4-18 of Cleveland, 4-19 of Columbus, 4-20 of Youngstown, 4-21 of Toledo, 4-23 of Mansfield, 4-24 of Dayton, and 4-25 of Akron, Pennsylvania units represented were 4-4 in Pittsburgh, 4-9 in Erie and 4-11 in McKeesport.

NEW YORK (AP)—ABC's entry into the hospital sweepstakes, "Ben Casey," came into view Monday night. While there's a marked family resemblance to NBC's new "Dr. Kildare," this one is more clinical, more preoccupied with operating room scenes and medical procedures.

The opening show was in a familiar context. Dr. Casey, played by Vincent Edwards, is the young resident in neuro-surgery and is on the verge of being fired because in his utter dedication to the healing art, he has insulted older doctors, caused nurses to resign and ordered too many instruments for the hospital budget.

To make things worse, he has gone against the advice of his superiors with the first of a series of brain operations on a young boy.

As if this was not plot enough, Dr. Casey at this point gets himself bitten by a woman patient dying of rabies. He has an allergy to rabies shots so he cannot take any treatment and for 30 days doesn't know whether he will survive.

Meanwhile, of course, he must complete the surgery on the little boy.

I knew that Dr. Casey didn't have rabies, because nobody would knock off a character after whom a series was named in the first snow of the season. I would not recommend it for the average hyperchondriac or anyone facing surgery, but it was good, fast-paced and interesting show.

Recommended tonight: "The Dick Van Dyke Show," premiere, CBS, 8:30 (EDT)—new situation comedy about a comedy writer; "Calvin and the Colonel," premiere, ABC 8:30-9—another animated cartoon series this one starring the voices of Freeman Gosden and Charles Correll, creators of Amos 'n Andy; "The New Breed," premiere, ABC, 9-10—an hour-long police-action series shot in Los Angeles locations.

Steel Union Faces Federal Price Plea

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg said today the Kennedy administration will apply as much pressure on the United Steelworkers for noninflationary wage demands as it has been exerting on the steel industry to prevent a price increase.

Goldberg, at a news conference, also reported: Unemployment last month declined more than seasonally. Tuesday's release of the September figures will show joblessness working force where it has hovered since the recession.

Business, Professional Unit Sponsors Membership Tea

The Business and Professional Women's Club of Circleville conducted a Membership Tea on Thursday evening in the Methodist Church Annex.

Guests were Mrs. Joan Wagner, Mrs. Eleanor Wilson, Mrs. Ann McConnell, Mrs. Marvyn Rhoades, Mrs. Esther Winks, Mrs. Frances Marion, Miss Stephanie Marion, Mrs. Mary K. Temple, Mrs. Sarah Winner and Mrs. Jane Hoover.

The president, Mrs. Geneva Ullman, introduced the membership chairman, Miss Daisy Karleskint, who welcomed the guests and members. She introduced Dr. Nancy Lu Conrad who is program and federation chairman.

Dr. Conrad gave an informative resume of the history of the BPW. Dr. Conrad is also Director of District No. 10, of which the Circleville Club is a member.

Dr. Conrad introduced Miss Stephanie Marion who gave a report of her week spent at Girl's State this past summer at Capital University, Columbus. Miss Marion was sponsored by the local club.

Refreshments were served by the committees, with Mrs. Ullman and Dr. Conrad presiding at the coffee and tea service.

The business meeting was directed by Mrs. Ullman and plans were completed for the District Meetings to be held by the clubs of District 10 on Oct. 8 in Circleville.

The membership committee is composed of Miss Karleskint, chairman, Dr. Conrad, Miss Ruth Hulise, Mrs. Pearl Defenbaugh and Miss Beverly Southward.

The program and federation Committee is composed of Dr. Conrad, chairman, Mrs. Esther Work, Mrs. Ruth Wignel, Miss Mary Wolfe, and Mrs. Elizabeth Altmeyer.

The next regular meeting of the club will be Oct. 26, with a dinner meeting at the Wardell Party Home.

Couples Club To Sponsor Masquerade

The Trinity Lutheran Couples Club will meet at 7:30 p. m. Sunday in the 4-H Building at the fair-ground for a Masquerade Party.

All members are asked to wear costumes or masks. Prizes will be awarded for the "prettiest," "ugliest" and the most original costume.

Refreshments will be served and square dancing will highlight the entertainment.

DeMolay Mothers Set For Meeting Tonight

Mothers of DeMolay members will meet at 8 p. m. today in the home of Mrs. Robert V. George, 405 Northridge Rd., to map plans for operating a food booth during the Pumpkin Show, Oct. 18-21.

The booth is to be located in front of the Masonic Temple on S. Court St.

Recent house guests of Major and Mrs. Donald Jackson, Hampton, Va., were Mrs. William Barthelmas and son, Steven, Mrs. Howard Sark, Mrs. Loring Creager, Mrs. William Gardner and Mr. Clara Ruhl.

LT. Commander Richard Hudson, whose ship docked at Norfolk, Va., visited with the Jacksons and their guests. They toured Williamsburg, Jamestown, Monticello and other places of interest.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Holmes of Stoutsville spent Saturday with the Jacksons.

Dear Abby...

By Abigail VanBuren

To Be Technical...

DEAR ABBY: A certain girl and I married brothers. When she introduces me to people she says, "This is my HUSBAND'S sister-in-law." To me I am as much HER sister-in-law as I am HIS. What do you think?

DEAR PUZZLED: Your "sister-in-law" is getting down to the fine technicalities. According to Webster's unabridged dictionary a "sister-in-law" is the sister of one's husband or wife; also the wife of one's brother; SOMETIMES the wife of one's husband's or wife's brother. I presume the "sometimes" means when you want to bring the relationship closer, which obviously is not the case here.

DEAR ABBY: My birthday is soon. I will be eleven years old. I want to have about 8 children to my party. My mother said she would give the party, and I am very happy about it, but there is one thing that is spoiling it for me. My mother says I am not to tell anyone that it is my birthday because she doesn't want them to buy presents. Now, Abby, I think that presents are most of the fun of a birthday party. How can I explain this to my mother?

UNHAPPY
DEAR UNHAPPY: Your mother is very thoughtful to be considerate of the guests' pocket-books, but I agree with you. Presents ARE great fun at a birthday party. I hope she reconsiders.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 17-year-old high school senior. I've been dating a certain girl for about four months. For a while I really was crazy about her. The luster has worn off now, and I don't care to date her any more. I don't want to tell her outright, and I don't want to keep her wondering and waiting. What would be least painful to her?

NO BEAST
DEAR NO BEAST: If you have made no commitments to her (such as asking her to go steady), just start dating another girl or two. If you had an "understanding," and she dated only you, tell her that you want to date others, and she should, too.

CONFIDENTIAL TO GREG:
There is no such thing as a "missed opportunity." The ones you missed were used by somebody else.

"Are things rough?" Let Abby help you solve your problem. For a personal reply enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and send to Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Pythian Unit Meet

The Pythian Sisters will meet 7:30 p. m. Thursday in the K of P Lodge Hall. The Drill staff will conduct a business meeting following the Temple session.

Hartley-Yaple Wedding Vows Are Exchanged

Miss Marilyn Hartley and Mr. Chester Yaple exchanged wedding vows September 2 in the home of Rev. and Mrs. Alonzo Hill of Corwin St.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hartley of Route 2, Laurelville, and is a 1958 graduate of Laurelville High School.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Yaple of 1245 S. Pickaway St. He is a 1956 graduate of Circleville High School.

The couple is now residing at the Wilson Trailer Court here.

Sub-Teeners Group Meets

The Sub-Teeners Class of the Circleville Gospel Center held its regular monthly meeting recently in the home of Linda Garrett, Dunkel Road.

The class teacher, Mrs. Robert George, led the group in the class song and cheer, followed by recitation of The Lord's Prayer.

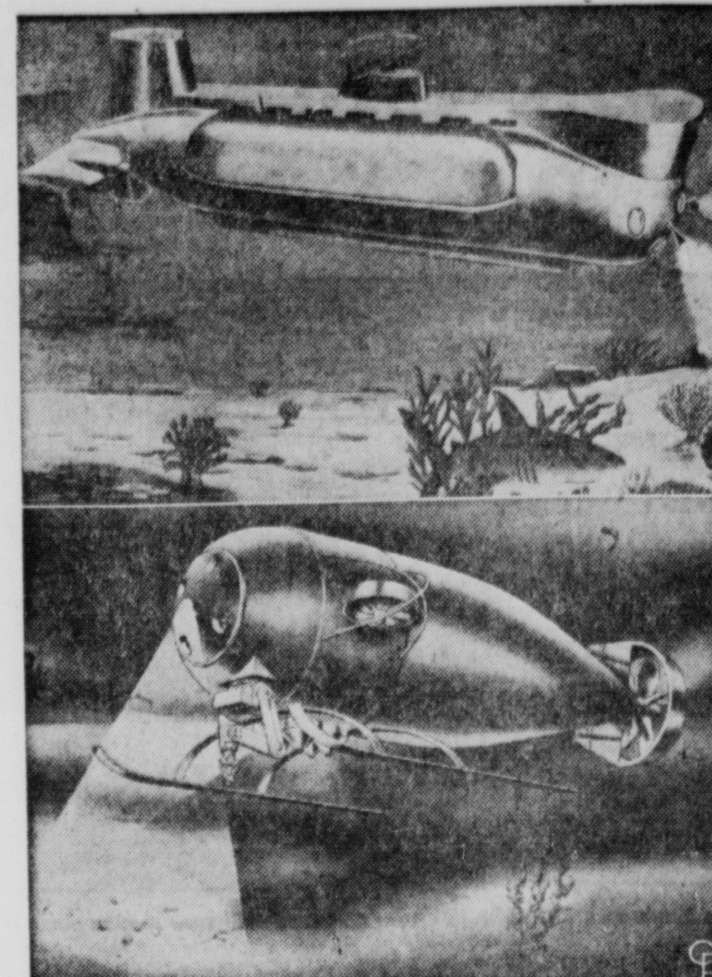

Member decided to have a Halloween Masquerade Party in the home of Joyce McRobert. The time will be announced at a later date.

Games and other recreation was conducted by Debbie Smith. Refreshments were served to 12 members and 12 guests by Mrs. Robert Garrett, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Metzler and Mrs. George.

A closing prayer was said by Linda Garrett.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gray and sons, Stephen and Sean, have returned to Pittsburgh, Pa., after spending the weekend with Mrs. Gray's mother, Mrs. Alva Hammond, Route 3, Circleville. Additional guests of Mrs. Hammond for Sunday dinner were Mr. and Mrs. George Trego and family, Mr. and Mrs. William Moran and family and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Trego and family, all of Circleville.

DEEP AND COMPACT—Top is a New York artist's drawing of the world's deepest diving submarine and the first made of aluminum. The 50-foot long Aluminaut, designed to travel at 15,000-foot depths, will hold a pilot and two scientists. First voyage is planned for 1963. Lower is another artist's sketch of the Seapup VI, designed by General Mills, Inc., of Minneapolis, as a compact, two-man, underwater research vehicle. Using the helicopter principle, the Seapup can move straight up or down, and hover or land on the sea bottom with its skis. It is only 18½ feet long and eight feet wide.

Business, Professional Unit Sponsors Membership Tea

The Business and Professional Women's Club of Circleville conducted a Membership Tea on Thursday evening in the Methodist Church Annex.

Guests were Mrs. Joan Wagner, Mrs. Eleanor Wilson, Mrs. Ann McConnell, Mrs. Marvina Rhoades, Mrs. Esther Winks, Mrs. Frances Marion, Miss Stephanie Marion, Mrs. Mary K. Temple, Mrs. Sarah Winner and Mrs. Jane Hoover.

The president, Mrs. Geneva Ullman, introduced the membership chairman, Miss Daisy Karleskint, who welcomed the guests and members. She introduced Dr. Nancy Lu Conrad who is program and federation chairman.

Dr. Conrad gave an informative resume of the history of the BPW. Dr. Conrad is also Director of District No. 10, of which the Circleville Club is a member.

Dr. Conrad introduced Miss Stephanie Marion who gave a report of her week spent at Girl's State this past summer at Capitol University, Columbus. Miss Marion was sponsored by the local club. Refreshments were served by the committees, with Mrs. Ullman and Dr. Conrad presiding at the coffee and tea service.

The business meeting was directed by Mrs. Ullman and plans were completed for the District Meetings to be held by the clubs of District 10 on Oct. 8 in Circleville.

The membership committee is composed of Miss Karleskint, chairman, Dr. Conrad, Miss Ruth Hulse, Mrs. Pearl Deffenbaugh and Miss Beverly Southward.

The program and federation Committee is composed of Dr. Conrad, chairman, Mrs. E. A. Ether Work, Mrs. Ruth Wignell, Miss Mary Wolfe, and Mrs. Elizabeth Altmeyer.

The next regular meeting of the club will be Oct. 26, with a dinner meeting at the Wardell Party Home.

Couples Club To Sponsor Masquerade

The Trinity Lutheran Couples Club will meet at 7:30 p. m. Sunday in the 4-H Building at the fair-ground for a Masquerade Party.

All members are asked to wear costumes or masks. Prizes will be awarded for the "prettiest", "ugliest" and the most original costume.

Refreshments will be served and square dancing will highlight the entertainment.

DeMolay Mothers Set For Meeting Tonight

Mothers of DeMolay members will meet at 8 p. m. today in the home of Mrs. Robert V. George, 405 Northridge Rd., to map plans for operating a food booth during the Pumpkin Show, Oct. 18-21.

The booth is to be located in front of the Masonic Temple on S. Court St.

SKILLET CHICKEN LIVERS

3/4 pound chicken livers
1 medium onion
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons medium sherry

Wash livers in cold water; drain. Quarter each one, removing center membrane. Peel onion; quarter; cut into thin lengthwise strips. Heat 1 tablespoon of the butter in an 8-inch skillet; add onion and cook gently, stirring often, just until golden; push to one side of pan. Add remaining 1 tablespoon butter and liver; cook fairly rapidly, turning, until firm through and barely pink inside. Stir in sherry. Makes 2 servings.

Combine first 6 ingredients in small saucepan. Place over low heat and cook slowly until thick. Cool slightly. Trim excess fat off chops. Fill pockets in chops with fruit stuffing (about 1/4 cup in each). Skewer opening with wooden picks to hold filling in chops. Heat shortening in skillet. Add chops and brown on both sides. Add water, cover, and cook over low heat 30 minutes. Turn chops and arrange potatoes around them. Season with salt, cover and cook until chops are tender and done, about 15-20 minutes more. Remove chops to serving platter. Mix potatoes in drippings and arrange around chops. Total cook time, about 50 minutes. Yield: 4 servings.

Fruit-Filled Chops, Frozen French Fries Make Popular One-Pan Dinner

Tender, succulent pork is plentiful, and stuffed pork chops are a family favorite everywhere. Here's a new way to star them in a skillet dinner that's good enough to serve company—and it takes just one pan! Try this gourmet easy-to-serve dinner with a crisp salad of tossed greens with a tangy French dressing, hot rolls and a dreamy chocolate cake for dessert. At our house this has become one of the favorite menus... and we use it often.

Fruit Filled Pork Chops with French Fries

1/2 cup chopped apple
1/2 cup chopped cooked prunes (about 1/4 pound, uncooked)
1/4 cup prune liquid or water
4 thick pork chops with pocket (at least 1 inch thick)
1 tablespoon shortening
2 tablespoons water
1 1-pound package frozen French fries
1 teaspoon salt

Combine first 6 ingredients in small saucepan. Place over low heat and cook slowly until thick. Cool slightly. Trim excess fat off chops. Fill pockets in chops with fruit stuffing (about 1/4 cup in each). Skewer opening with wooden picks to hold filling in chops. Heat shortening in skillet. Add chops and brown on both sides. Add water, cover, and cook over low heat 30 minutes. Turn chops and arrange potatoes around them. Season with salt, cover and cook until chops are tender and done, about 15-20 minutes more. Remove chops to serving platter. Mix potatoes in drippings and arrange around chops. Total cook time, about 50 minutes. Yield: 4 servings.

Dear Abby...

By Abigail VanBuren

To Be Technical...

DEAR ABBY: A certain girl and I married brothers. When she introduces me to people she says, "This is my HUSBAND'S sister-in-law." To me I am as much HER sister-in-law as I am HIS. What do you think?

DEAR PUZZLED: Your "sister-in-law" is getting down to the fine technicalities. According to Webster's unabridged dictionary a "sister-in-law" is the sister of one's husband or wife; also the wife of one's brother; SOMETIMES the wife of one's husband's or wife's brother. I presume the "sometimes" means when you want to bring the relationship closer, which obviously is not the case here.

DEAR ABBY: My birthday is soon. I will be eleven years old. I want to have about 8 children to my party. My mother said she would give the party, and I am very happy about it, but there is one thing that is spoiling it for me. My mother says I am not to tell anyone that it is my birthday because she doesn't want them to buy presents. Now, Abby, I think that presents are most of the fun of a birthday party. How can I explain this to my mother?

UNHAPPY
DEAR UNHAPPY: Your mother is very thoughtful to be considerate of the guests' pocket-books, but I agree with you. Presents ARE great fun at a birthday party. I hope she reconsiders.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 17-year-old high school senior. I've been dating a certain girl for about four months. For a while I really was crazy about her. The luster has worn off now, and I don't care to date her any more. I don't want to tell her, and I don't want to keep her wondering and waiting. What would be least painful to her?

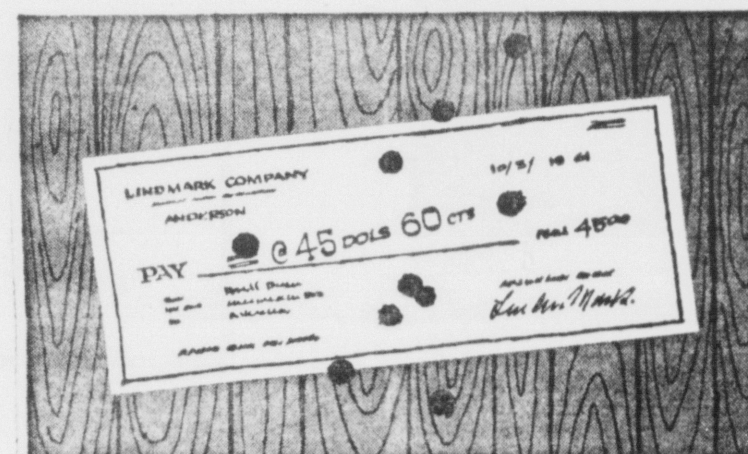

NO BEAST
DEAR NO BEAST: If you have made no commitments to her (such as asking her to go steady), just start dating another girl or two. If you had an "understanding," and she dated only you, tell her that you want to date others, and she should, too.

CONFIDENTIAL TO GREG:
There is no such thing as a "missed opportunity." The ones you missed were used by somebody else.

"Are things rough?" Let Abby help you solve your problem. For a personal reply enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and send to Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hartley of Route 2, Laurelville, and is a 1958 graduate of Laurelville High School.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Yaple of 1245 S. Pickaway St. He is a 1956 graduate of Circleville High School.

The couple is now residing at the Wilson Trailer Court here.

Sub-Teeners Group Meets

The Sub-Teeners Class of the Circleville Gospel Center held its regular monthly meeting recently in the home of Linda Garrett, Dunkel Road.

The class teacher, Mrs. Robert George, led the group in the class song and cheer, followed by recitation of The Lord's Prayer.

Member decided to have a Halloween Maquerade Party in the home of Joyce McRobert. The time will be announced at a later date.

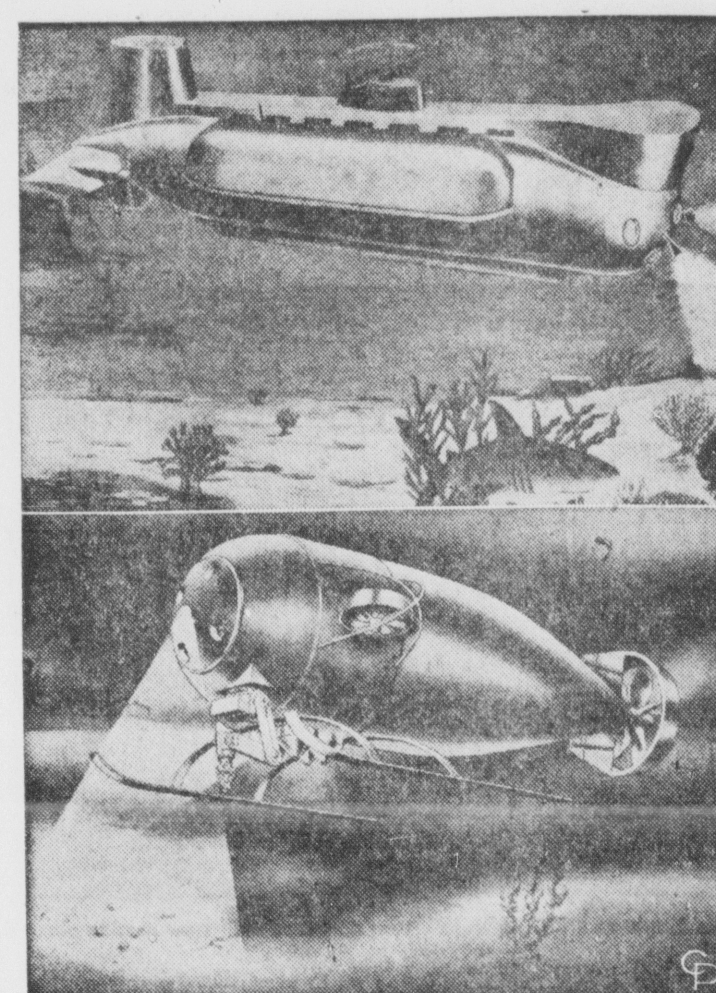

Games and other recreation was conducted by Debbie Smith.

Refreshments were served to 12 members and 12 guests by Mrs. Robert Garrett, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Metzler and Mrs. George.

A closing prayer was said by Linda Garrett.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gray and sons, Stephen and Sean, have returned to Pittsburgh, Pa., after spending the weekend with Mrs. Gray's mother, Mrs. Alva Hammond, Route 3, Circleville. Additional guests of Mrs. Hammond for Sunday dinner were Mr. and Mrs. George Trego and family, Mr. and Mrs. William Moran and family and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Trego and family, all of Circleville.

Ohio Boy, 17, Stops Running, Admits Slaying

MONTEREY PARK, Calif. (AP) — "I'm glad it's over. I'm glad I can stop running. If I hadn't hurt Judy it would have been some other girls."

Police said Monday night at 17-year-old hitchhiker told them this in admitting the hammer and rope slaying of an Ohio girl last Sept. 3.

He is Richard John Stewart, 17, of Cuyahoga Falls, near Akron. The dead girl was Judith Sooy, 18, a Kent State University coed.

Officers say Stewart acknowledged luring her into his home while his parents were away for the weekend.

Police Chief William Coleman said the 6-foot Stewart told him that he had had a sex problem since the age of 6. The chief said Stewart signed a statement giving this story:

Stewart made a date with Judith using another youths name. When he picked her up the next night, he told her the other fellow couldn't come. Stewart drove her to his home to pick up a record player and persuaded her to go with him to the basement.

There he hit her with a hammer, knocking her unconscious. When she began to revive, he strangled her with a rope.

"I didn't intend to kill her," Chief Coleman quoted Stewart as saying. "I just wanted to unclothe her and look at her nude body."

"After it happened — after she died in my arms, I became scared," Coleman quoted him. "I started to run. I've run day and night the last month. I stopped at police stations . . . hoping they'd recognize me and arrest me."

A Tiny Asterish Shakes Up World

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sports are popular in America these days, not because they take your mind off Nikita Khrushchev, but because, unlike international politics, they are tangible and definite.

So reasons James (Scotty) Reston, two-time Pulitzer Prize-winning correspondent of the New York Times. Reston, a one-time sports champion himself (Big Ten golf), says sports fans don't have to wait 25 years to see how a thing came out. He opines:

Sports start at a time certain. They provide a little pageantry in our unceremonial country. They have a beginning, a middle and an end. You generally know who won when it's all over, and they provide controversy.

The case of Maris vs. Ruth illustrates the point. In the last session of Congress 2,783 bills were passed for the relief of injustice or undue hardship to private citizens of this country, but for some mysterious reason no-bid introduced a bill for the relief of Roger Maris of the New York Yankees.

The facts are not in dispute and are even fairly well known. Maris a tax-paying professional baseball player, hit 61 home runs this season, but because another player, one George Herman (Babe) Ruth hit 60 in a slightly shorter season, Maris was reduced to an asterisk or footnote in baseball history. This was done on orders from Ford Frick, the high commissioner of baseball, and it may well go down as the worst judgment since Sherman Adams took that rug from his old friend Bernard Goldfine of Boston.

Accordingly it is not hard to understand why Maris is a national figure in America today. A man cannot follow Khrushchev for long, because he is vague and he goes on like a stuck whistle. But Maris can be seen. His goal is clear and you don't have to make a life career out of analyzing his motives or anticipating his moves.

No wonder, then, that America turns to the sports pages before it turns to the editorials and pays more attention to the case of Maris vs. Ruth or New York vs. Cincinnati than Khrushchev vs. Kennedy or Moscow vs. Berlin.

Maris is more than a ball player. He is a momentary antidote to the confusion of our times, a brief escape from frustration and a particularly attractive figure as the symbol of bad luck.

In a small way he is now even part of that gallant company of men and women who didn't quite make it, not only the Hank Greenbergs, the Jimmy Foxesses, and the Hank Wilsons who came close, but the also rans of history, who tried hard and failed in the end.

The world's politics are full of them—Richard Nixon, Adlai Stevenson, Tom Dewey, Al Smith, William Jennings Bryan, Henry Clay and Jefferson Davis in our own country; Trotsky, Malenkov and Molotov in Russia—and many others.

The world's Storytellers, likewise, have been fascinated for centuries by the gallant failures of life: Ponce de Leon, who never found the fountain of youth; Ahab in Moby Dick, who was killed by the White Whale in the end; Ophelia, who struck out on Hamlet and Casey Jones, who never got his train to the end of the line.

High Commissioner Frick merely thought about the mathematics and not the philosophy of the Maris case, and he did nothing about the psychology of it at all. The essential difference between Ruth and Maris was not merely that Maris was a better all around ball player but that Maris had to worry about Ruth and Ruth didn't have to worry about Maris.

No asterisk can properly explain this story, and, besides, Frick put it in the wrong place.

He should have listed Maris with Ruth among the heroes and let the asterisk explain that it took Maris a little longer.

Having failed to do so, Frick could easily wind up himself as an asterisk under the name of his illustrious predecessor, Kene-saw Mountain Landis.

Stranded U.S. Fliers Finally To Get Home

SHANNON, Ireland (AP) — Shannon airport's 98 stranded Irish-American tourists got a $6,000 word of cheer today. The arrival of a Los Angeles bank draft for that amount cleared the way for their return home—seven days late.

President Air Lines sent the money to pay landing fees and fuel bills piled up on the airliner chartered by group. The plane was scheduled to fly them home last Wednesday.

Airport officials said the draft needed only a precautionary inspection before it could be cleared for departure. Passengers were told it would probably take off tonight.

The Erin's Own Club of Chicago chartered the tour.

The weary Irish-Americans, all from Chicago, had assembled once more at the airport from hotels and private dwellings in the area where most of them had spent their sixth night waiting for transportation.

The examination of the plane, described as routine, was carried out by Capt. Jerry McCabe, chief aviation inspector of the Irish government, and Ed Kline, an inspector of the U.S. Federal Aviation Agency.

The stranded visitors to the Old Sod originally numbered 103. Five of them gave up on the charter flight and took a scheduled airliner home Monday night.

Father-Slayer Sentenced

7 in Warren Are Indicted For Shakedown of Contractor

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — The Trumbull County grand jury has indicted three Warren city councilmen, the chairman of the Trumbull County Democratic Party, a Warren cafe owner and professional bondsman, and two others in connection with an alleged shakedown of contractors in the award of a multi-million dollar sewer project.

Indicted were Frank Cickelli, county Democratic chief, city councilmen Raymond J. Little, Jack Flask and John Janosik and the bondsman, James Matash. G. H. Birrell said two other were included in the secret indictments, but had not been served with charges. Cickelli and Little were released on $10,000 bond each, and Flask, Janosik and Matash on $5,000 bonds. None entered pleas. They are to appear Friday for arraignment.

Judge Birrell said Cickelli, who appeared before the judge voluntarily, was accused of conspiring to extort money from the contracting firms. They are the Rocco Ferrare Construction Co. of Detroit and Boam Construction Co. of Livonia, Mich. According to Judge Birrell, the indictments named these persons and charged:

Cickelli—aiding and abetting Little in soliciting $35,000 from construction officials to influence Little's vote in awarding the $4.4 million sewerage contract; two counts of conspiracy with a Niles man to extort $200,000 from construction officials; obtaining $10,000 from construction officials by false pretenses; intimidating a grand jury witness.

Little — Soliciting $35,000 and $20,000 from officials of the construction firms; intimidating a grand jury witness; soliciting five per cent on another sewerage project already completed.

Flask and Janosik — Soliciting $20,000 from one construction company official and five per cent of a completed sewerage project valued at several hundred thousand dollars.

Matash — Conspiring with the three councilmen to obtain five per cent of a completed sewerage project valued at several hundred thousand dollars; intimidating a grand jury witness.

The indictments followed a sudden work stoppage just before Labor Day on the $4,440,566 project for construction of the Red Run diversion conduit and Mahoning River interceptor sewer.

The Boam and Ferrare companies had said only that "internal problems" had caused the work stoppage. They had tried to assign the contracts to Monzo Construction Co. of Monroeville, Pa., which had sued in federal court at Cleveland to upset the original award of the work on the grounds Monzo had a lower bid entered.

Little Joe Opens War on Trade Stamps

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—State Treasurer Joseph Ferguson has gotten into the battle to do away with trading stamps.

At a citywide rally of service station operators Monday night, Ferguson urged them to "get rid of the expensive burden."

He said this could be done only if "everyone banded together for the cause."

The rally was called by Dick Baldridge, president of the Greater Columbus Gasoline Dealers Association, who is leading the stamp-out-the-stamps drive here.

Baldridge told the 250 independent businessmen — including several grocers and drug store operators—that the expense of so-called premium stamps is eating into dealers' profits. And the public does not get something for nothing, he maintained.

"It's the small businessman that we're trying to protect," Baldridge said. "We've got to stop these stamp companies from squeezing out all of our profits from the fellow on the corner."

Former Columbus Mayor M. E. (Jack) Sensenbrenner told the group: "Everyone in honest business—big and small—has its right to earn equitable profit. If trading stamps are the tool of big business to eliminate small business, then they are morally wrong."

Baldridge estimates that 80 per cent of some 1100 service stations in the city have abandoned the stamp give-away. He's shooting for a clean sweep.

In the last session of Congress 2,783 bills were passed for the relief of injustice or undue hardship to private citizens of this country, but for some mysterious reason nobody introduced a bill for the relief of Roger Maris of the New York Yankees.

The facts are not in dispute and are even fairly well known. Maris is a tax-paying professional baseball player, hit 61 home runs this season, but because another player, one George Herman (Babe) Ruth hit 60 in a slightly shorter season, Maris was reduced to an asterisk or footnote in baseball history. This was done on orders

U.S. Steel Output Climbs to New High

NEW YORK (AP)—More steel was turned out by the nation's mills last week than in any other week in nearly a year and a half, the American Iron & Steel Institute reported Monday.

Despite the rise, output so far this year of 70,449,000 tons is 11.7 per cent lower than in the comparable period of last year.

The Institute said output mounted to 2,131,000 tons in the week ended Sept. 30, just 6,000 tons less than the total for the week of May 7, 1960.

The week's total—0.8 per cent higher than in the same week last year—also was a new high for 1961, topping the 2,114,000 tons produced in the previous week.

Hamilton Strikers Plan Vote on New Contract

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—Striking employees of the Fernald Plant of the National Lead Co. of Ohio will vote Wednesday morning on whether they will return to work while the U.S. Atomic Energy Negotiating Panel mediates their contract dispute.

from Ford Frick, the high commissioner of baseball, and it may well go down as the worst judgment since Sherman Adams took that rug from his old friend Bernard Goldfine of Boston.

Accordingly it is not hard to understand why Maris is a national figure in America today. A man cannot follow Khrushchev for long, because he is vague and he goes on like a stuck whistle. But Maris can be seen. His goal is clear and you don't have to make a life career out of analyzing his motives or anticipating his moves.

No wonder, then, that America turns to the sports pages before it turns to the editorials and pays more attention the case of Maris vs. Ruth or New York vs. Cincinnati than Khrushchev vs. Kennedy or Moscow vs. Berlin.

Maris is more than a ball player. He is a momentary antidote to the confusion of our times, a brief escape from frustration and a particularly attractive figure as the symbol of bad luck.

In a small way he is now even part of that gallant company of men and women who didn't quite make it, not only the Hank Greenbergs, the Jimmy Foxesses, and the Hank Wilsons who came close, but the also rans of history, who tried hard and failed in the end.

The world's politics are full of them—Richard Nixon, Adlai Stevenson, Tom Dewey, Al Smith, William Jennings Bryan, Henry Clay and Jefferson Davis in our own country; Trotsky, Malenkov and Molotov in Russia—and many others.

The world's Storytellers, likewise, have been fascinated for centuries by the gallant failures of life: Ponce de Leon, who never found the fountain of youth; Ahab in Moby Dick, who was killed by the White Whale in the end; Ophelia, who struck out on Hamlet and Casey Jones, who never got his train to the end of the line.

High Commissioner Frick merely thought about the mathematics and not the philosophy of the Maris case, and he did nothing about the psychology of it at all. The essential difference between Ruth and Maris was not merely that Maris was a better all around ball player but that Maris had to worry about Ruth and Ruth didn't have to worry about Maris.

No asterisk can properly explain this story, and, besides, Frick put it in the wrong place.

He should have listed Maris with Ruth among the heroes and let the asterisk explain that it took Maris a little longer.

Having failed to do so, Frick could easily wind up himself as an asterisk under the name of his illustrious predecessor, Kene-saw Mountain Landis.

MOCCASIN BITE — Vicki Brown, just a year old and too young to realize her narrow escape from death, holds out her bandaged thumb, which was bitten by a 33-inch moccasin snake at Valdosta, Ga. Quick treatment and a night in the hospital and she's okay.

Stranded U.S. Fliers Finally To Get Home

SHANNON, Ireland (AP) — Shannon airport's 98 stranded Irish-American tourists got a $6,000 word of cheer today. The arrival of a Los Angeles bank draft for that amount cleared the way for their return home—seven days late.

President Air Lines sent the money to pay landing fees and fuel bills piled up on the airliner chartered by group. The plane was scheduled to fly them home last Wednesday.

Airport officials said the draft needed only a precautionary inspection before it could be cleared for departure. Passengers were told it would probably take off tonight.

The Erin's Own Club of Chicago chartered the tour.

The weary Irish-Americans, all from Chicago, had assembled once more at the airport from hotels and private dwellings in the area where most of them had spent their sixth night waiting for transportation.

The examination of the plane, described as routine, was carried out by Capt. Jerry McCabe, chief aviation inspector of the Irish government, and Ed Kline, an inspector of the U.S. Federal Aviation Agency.

The stranded visitors to the Old Sod originally numbered 103. Five of them gave up on the charter flight and took a scheduled airliner home Monday night.

Father-Slayer Sentenced

CINCINNATI (AP)—Harold W. Simmons, 35, has been sentenced in Hamilton County common pleas court to life imprisonment for the second-degree murder of his father, William, 77, last April 4.

7 in Warren Are Indicted For Shakedown of Contractor

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — The Trumbull County grand jury has indicted three Warren city councilmen, the chairman of the Trumbull County Democratic Party, a Warren cafe owner and professional bondsman, and two others in connection with an alleged shakedown of contractors in the award of a multi-million dollar sewer project.

Indicted were Frank Cickelli, county Democratic chief, city councilman Raymond J. Little, Jack Flask and John Janosik and the bondsman, James Matash. G. H. Birrell said two other were included in the secret indictments, but had not been served with charges. Cickelli and Little were released on $10,000 bond each, and Flask, Janosik and Matash on $5,000 bonds. Nore entered pleas. They are to appear Friday for arraignment.

Judge Birrell said Cickelli, who appeared before the judge voluntarily, was accused of conspiring to extort money from the contracting firms. They are the Rocco Ferrare Construction Co. of Detroit and Boam Construction Co. of Livonia, Mich. According to Judge Birrell, the indictments named these persons and charges:

Cickelli—aiding and abetting Little in soliciting $35,000 from construction officials to influence Little's vote in awarding the $4.4 million sewerage contract; two counts of conspiracy with a Niles man to extort $200,000 from construction officials; obtaining $10,000 from construction officials by false pretenses; intimidating a grand jury witness.

Little — Soliciting $35,000 and $20,000 from officials of the construction firms; intimidating a grand jury witness; soliciting five per cent on another sewage project already completed.

Flask and Janosik — Soliciting $20,000 from one construction company official and five per cent of a completed sewage project valued at several hundred thousand dollars.

Matash — Conspiring with the three councilmen to obtain five per cent of a completed sewage project valued at several hundred thousand dollars; intimidating a grand jury witness.

The indictments followed a sudden work stoppage just before Labor Day on the $4,440,566 project for construction of the Red Run diversion conduit and Mahoning River interceptor sewer.

The Boam and Ferrare companies had said only that "internal problems" had caused the work stoppage. They had tried to assign the contracts to Monzo Construction Co. of Monroeville, Pa., which had sued in federal court at Cleveland to upset the original award of the work on the grounds Monzo had a lower bid entered.

Little Joe Opens War on Trade Stamps

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—State Treasurer Joseph Ferguson has gotten into the battle to do away with trading stamps.

At a citywide rally of service station operators Monday night, Ferguson urged them to "get rid of the expensive burden."

He said this could be done only if "everyone banded together for the cause."

The rally was called by Dick Baldridge, president of the Greater Columbus Gasoline Dealers Association, who is leading the stamp-out-the-stamps drive here.

Baldridge told the 250 independent businessmen — including several grocers and drug store operators—that the expense of so-called premium stamps is eating into dealers' profits. And the public does not get something for nothing, he maintained.

"It's the small businessman that we're trying to protect," Baldridge said. "We've got to stop these stamp companies from squeezing out all of our profits from the fellow on the corner."

Former Columbus Mayor M. E. (Jack) Sensenbrenner told the group: "Everyone in honest business—big and small—has its right to earn equitable profit. If trading stamps are the tool of big business to eliminate small business, then they are morally wrong."

Baldridge estimates that 80 per cent of some 1100 service stations in the city have abandoned the stamp give-away. He's shooting for a clean sweep.

Doctor Finds South Sea Life Can Be a Little Too Simple

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Lee Birnkrant's search for paradise is over, but his life will never be quite the same.

This is a sequel to the dispatch written from Tahiti last February about the North Hollywood orthodontist who chucked a good-paying job to try life in the South Seas.

Lee is back in civilization, once again peering into little mouths and straightening teeth.

"I've changed, though," he remarked. "Tahiti taught me one lesson, a big one. Down there I learned to live simply. All you need is a place to sleep, food to eat—raw fish included, and good friends."

Last year Lee left his $1200-a-month job to pursue the dream that every American male has of Tahiti. He had studied or worked all his life, and at 27 he was unmarried.

At first he had the usual tourist's reaction to Tahiti: He was dazzled by the scenery and the girls. Then he was depressed by the strangeness of the surroundings. But then he was accepted by the Tahitians and he accepted their philosophy of "jita pea pea"—it doesn't matter.

Lee managed to support himself by working for the "Mutiny on the Bounty" company. One production aide said he saved the studio $30,000 one day by quick work on the teeth of Marlon Brando's native leading lady, Tarita, when she was needed for a close-up.

Despite his fondness for Tahitian life, Lee admitted he was ready to leave before the end of the seven-month period foreigners are allowed to stay. Why?

"Because I had been spoiled by regret. 'The life is great for the first few months. But then you feel the need for some intellectual stimulus.'"

"You can't find it in Tahiti. I suppose there are some books there, but I never felt like reading."

Now Lee is back and practicing in Beverly Hills, using a new method of straightening teeth without bands. Remembering his Tahiti lesson, he will work only part-time and only long enough to earn some money to travel again. Would he go back to Tahiti?

"Certainly," he said.

'MISS U.S.A.' ACCUSES — Terry Huntington, shown as "Miss U.S.A." in 1959, accuses attorney Arthur Crowley (lower) of fathering her unborn child in a suit filed in Los Angeles. She demands he provide money for medical bills and support.

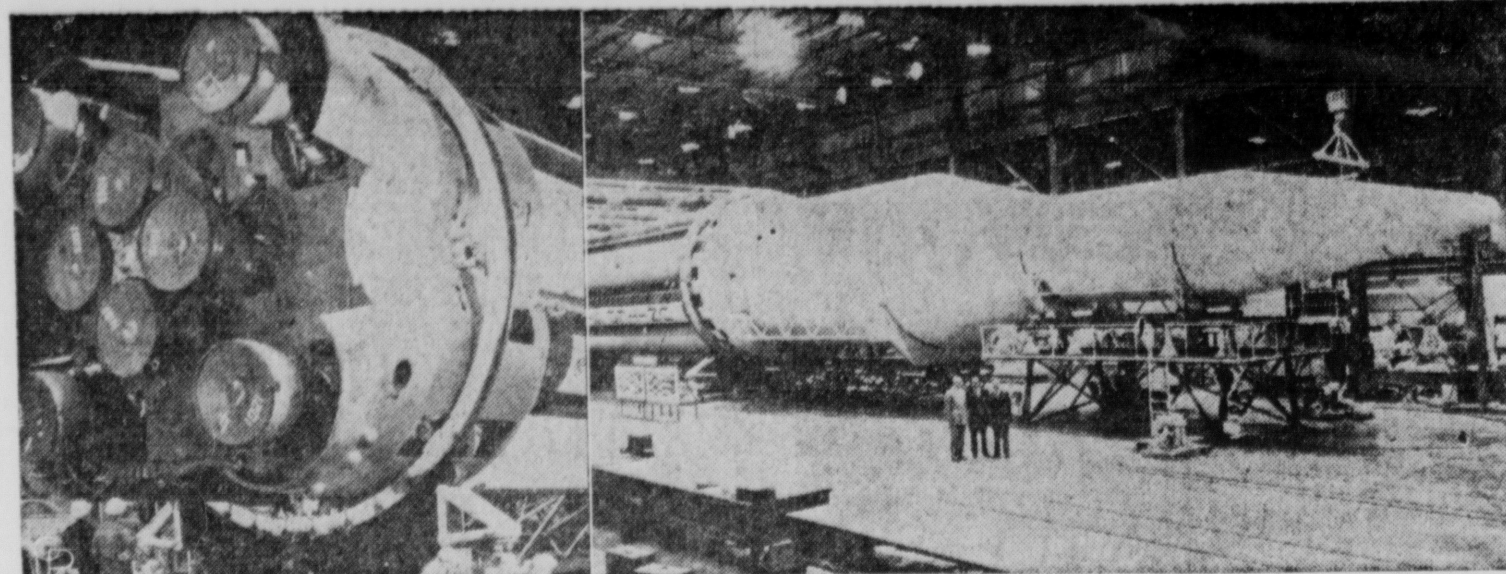

End to U.S. Trade Embargoes Urged

CLEVELAND (AP)—An end to trade embargoes by the United States was called for Sunday night by Dr. Roland E. Wolfe, Harkness professor of biblical literature at Western Reserve University.

He said resumption of trade with Russia, China and Cuba and recognition of Red China by the United States and the United Nations are imperatives for world peace.

"If we continue on these (trade) embargoes we don't deserve any peace," he said in addressing the sixth annual Peace Seminar at Lakewood Methodist Church.

Negro Is Urged As Akron Judge

ALLIANCE, Ohio (AP)—Gov. Michael V. DiSalle has been called upon to appoint an Akron Negro lawyer to fill a vacancy on the Summit County common pleas court bench.

The Federated County Democrats of Ohio, made up of Negroes in 68 Ohio counties, concluded a two-day convention here Sunday by passing a resolution urging the governor to name the lawyer, Rufus L. Thompson, to the bench. Thompson is a former Akron assistant law director.

DiSalle is expected to appoint a successor some time this month to Judge Ray B. Watters, who died of a heart attack Sept. 15. He has asked the Summit County Democratic Committee and the Akron Bar Association to send him slates of three nominees each from which to make a selection.

Steubenville To Host Top Tilts of Week

No. 1 Massillon Due
To Test Big Red;
No. 2 Niles Also Slated

COLUMBUS, Ohio AP) — The high school football capital of Ohio moves to Steubenville this week-end.

Two of the season's most important high school games are scheduled there — and someone's state title hopes are due for a boost or a knockout.

Massillon's defending champs and runaway leaders of the current Associated Press poll meet Coach Ray Hoyman's Big Red team of Steubenville High Friday night.

Niles McKinley, runner-up to Massillon last season and in second place in the 1961 ratings, tangles Saturday night with Steubenville Central Catholic.

Steubenville High is fifth in the poll with a 4-0 record and a 122-48 scoring mark. Massillon, also 4-0, has a 128-18 scoring edge. Anything could happen here.

Steubenville Central is well down in the statewide rankings, but it has rolled over four foes to the tune of 196-6, including a 70-0 pasting of Wheeling, W. Va., Central last Friday. Niles is 4-0 and has outpointed the opposition 172-28.

The ratings this week were made by 47 sports writers, biggest vote in some time. Only one change popped up in the top 10. Toledo Scott dropped out and Hamilton Garfield's great defensive team climbed all the way from 11th to 6th.

Stonerock's Puts 3 Players, Manager On Loop All-Stars

Stonerock's TV softball team placed three players on the 23-man Columbus A League all-stars, according to selections made by official league scorers Dick Haney and Byron Miller.

In addition Paul (Snow) Seymour, well-known local softballer, was named manager of the exclusive squad.

Speeder Davis was picked as a first-string outfielder while Harold Gulick was named starting catcher. Star Stonerock's hurler Kenney Reid got the nod as top mound man for the stars.

Selections came at the close of the season. The Circleville club was in contention most of the way for the loop crown.

Ohio State Dropped To 8th in Grid Poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Iowa Hawkeyes, who set their own pace in a 28-7 season-opening victory over California last Saturday, set it well enough to retain the No. 1 spot in the weekly Associated Press college football poll.

Twenty-four of the 49 members of the AP board of experts cast their first-place ballots for the Hawkeyes of the Big Ten. With plenty of secondary support from the other voters they wound up with 424 points and a clear edge over Mississippi. The Rebels, also No. 2 a week ago, wound up with 16 first-place votes and 325 points. Ole Miss whipped Kentucky 20-6 for its second in a row.

Georgia Tech, noticed but unranked after clouting Southern California 27-7 in its first game, bolted up to third place after thumping Rice 24-0.

A chance for measuring comparative strength will come Saturday when Iowa plays Southern Cal at Los Angeles. Georgia Tech fans will be interested to see whether Iowa can handle the Trojans with anywhere near the ease that the Engineers did 10 days ago.

The top ten teams — point figured on a 10-9-8-7, etc. basis with first place votes in parentheses:

1. Iowa (24)	434
2. Mississippi (16)	325
3. Georgia Tech (5)	266
4. Alabama (1)	259
5. Texas (2)	218
6. Michigan State (1)	203
7. Syracuse	191
8. Ohio State	128
9. Michigan	123
10. Baylor	117

X—48 votes cast.

Senior Amateur Golfers Tee Off

Buffalo Rookie Wins League Toga

MONTREAL (AP)—Ted Savage, rookie outfielder of the Buffalo Bisons today was named the most valuable player in the International League for 1961.

Savage, a 24-year-old right-handed batter from East St. Louis, Ill., won the honor in voting of league sports writers in a close race with Donn Clendenon, rookie first baseman of the Columbus Jets. Each received nine first place votes of 24 cast. Savage won on the basis of seven second place votes to five for Clendenon.

Savage led the league in batting with a .325 average, and also led in total hits, runs scored and stolen bases. He is property of the Philadelphia Phillies.

He swings at everything

An outfielder again

A TRULY 'CLASSIC' YANKEE—That would be Yogi Berra, of course, who holds a flock of World Series records and will add to them this year as the Yanks go for another championship. Berra, colorful clown and buffoon to many, will be playing in his 12th fall classic. In addition to this record Yogi has played the most games, 68; has scored the most runs, 39; has the most times at bat, 245; has batted in the most runs, 39; has the most singles, 47; the most total bases, 111, and is tied with Frank Frisch for the most doubles, 10. Additionally he holds several catching marks for the Series. (Central Press)

1. Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation for the thoughtful messages of sympathy and beautiful flowers received from our many friends, neighbors and relatives at the death of our Father and Grandfather, Andrew Benson.

We especially want to thank Rev. O. F. Gibbs for his kind and consoling words, the pallbearers, singers, and the Deffenbaugh Funeral Home for its efficient and friendly service.

Mrs. Hazel Merz and Daughters.

We wish to express our sincere thanks to relatives, friends and neighbors for their kindness and sympathy shown us at loss of our wife and mother Mary A. Heffner. Special thanks to the singers, Reverend William Carter and Bastian Funeral Home.

A TRULY 'CLASSIC' YANKEE—That would be Yogi Berra, of course, who holds a flock of World Series records and will add to them this year as the Yankees go for another championship. Berra, colorful clown and buffoon to many, will be playing in his 12th fall classic. In addition to this record Yogi has played the most games, 68; has scored the most runs, 39; has the most times at bat, 245; has batted in the most runs, 39; has the most singles, 47; the most total bases, 111, and is tied with Frank Frisch for the most doubles, 10. Additionally he holds several catching marks for the Series. (Central Press)

Reds Don't Know They're 'Beaten

NEW YORK (AP)—Lo, the poor Reds. Doesn't anyone think they can win?

On the eve of the autumn extravaganza known as the World Series all the commotion seems to be about the New York Yankees, a perennial American League nominee, who'll face the National League champion, the Cincinnati Reds, in the opener of the best-of-seven set Wednesday at Yankee Stadium.

Those nebulous figures who compile the betting odds have the Yankees favored at 2 1/2 to 1. That mass of citizenry which suddenly becomes baseball conscious at series time knows all about redoubtable Roger Maris and his 61 home runs, Mickey Mantle's celebrated ailing hip and his home runs, Whitey Ford's prodigious pitching and probably about Elston Howard's high batting average.

This preoccupation with the Yankees is reflected in the press, radio and television. It's Yankees, Yankees, Yankees. There is talk of a four-game sweep, such as the Yanks staged against the Reds the last time the two clubs met in 1939.

The poor Reds. You'd hardly know they were in town. But they are. They'll show up ready to face the awesome Mari & Co. and they don't appear to be quaking in their boots at the prospect.

Their manager, hefty and combat-spirited Fred Hutchinson, put it this way: "It'll be a helluva fight. I've read we're supposed to lose, maybe in four straight. Well, I haven't told my players. Games are won on the field, anyway, not in the papers or on the radio or in television booth."

Hutchinson concedes the Yankees have the pitching and the fielding, and he's adequately impressed but not overwhelmed by the Yankee power.

Conga Line To Uncoil Before Bucks

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Single-wing football, seldom seen anymore, will spice the scene Saturday in Ohio Stadium.

UCLA's Bruins, exponents of the style of attack abandoned by most teams with the rise of the T-formation, will give the fans a bang, says Ohio State coach Elmer Schoeninger, who scouted them last week.

"They break out of the huddle like a spiral conga line, all in step like chorus girls," Sark said. "It's very pretty and the crowd will love it."

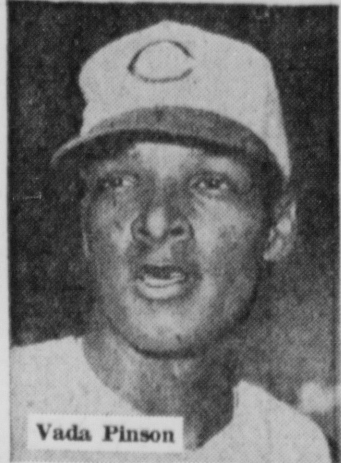

Improvement over the Buckeyes' showing in the 7-7 tie with Texas Christian in last week's opener is foreseen by Coach Woody Hayes. He said at his weekly press luncheon Monday that UCLA will "be meeting a better Ohio State team than TCU did."

Hayes said that in the opener "we made more mistakes than we'll make in midseason games. The odd part is that the newcomers made fewer mistakes than our veterans."

Sarkinen, who scouted UCLA in an opening 19-6 win over the Air Force Academy and in Saturday's 29-6 loss to Michigan, considers the Bruins plenty dangerous.

Ten seniors and one junior are in the UCLA starting lineup, Sarkinen says. "It's not a massive team, but it has speed and power."

Yankees Favored 12-5 Even with Mantle on Bench

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Yankees, with or without Mickey Mantle, today ruled heavy 12-5 favorites to win the World Series against the Cincinnati Reds.

Mantle, the junior partner in the M-M pitcher-wrecking company with 54 home runs, is recovering from minor surgery on his hip and is a questionable starter in the first game Wednesday.

If Mantle hasn't recovered enough, Manager Ralph Houk has nominated Hector Lopez to handle right field, with Roger Maris moving over to Mantle's center-field spot.

Whitey Ford (25-4), the bomber's top money pitcher for a decade, will take the mound against Cincinnati's Jim O'Toole (19-9) in the opener starting at 12 noon EST before a Yankee Stadium throng of about 70,000. Both are left-handers.

The weather forecast is for continued rain into Wednesday with temperatures between 60 and 70 degrees. Should rain force postponement the first game will be played Thursday with the second game, also at Yankee Stadium, on Friday.

The series will be carried on television and radio by NBC with a starting time of 11:45 a.m. EST in New York.

Mantle said the way he feels now, he won't be able to play the opener.

"But," he said, "even if I miss the first game, that doesn't mean I won't be all right for the rest of the Series. Maybe it will get better quicker than I think."

Mantle's dour outlook was not shared by the Yankees' team physician, Dr. Sydney Gaynor, or by Houk.

"Of course he feels weak and sore," said Dr. Gaynor. "He has a wound that must heal. Knowing Mickey and how he responds to treatment, I think he'll play."

Houk said he would not scratch Mantle from the lineup until just before game time.

"Sure, Mickey isn't feeling right," said Houk. "But that's to be expected. Wait until he's had a bowl or two of soup and a couple of steaks. Then notice the difference."

Otherwise, Houk plans to start his regular lineup. Assuming Mantle answers the call, it will be Bobby Richardson, 2b; Tony Kubek, ss; Maris, rf; Mantle, cf; Elston Howard, c; Yogi Berra, lf;

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Editor

The Yankees will see Red as of Wednesday, as the World Series unfolds and when the early fall elastics ends a few days later in Cincinnati the mighty men of mail should have their 19th World championship and all the gold that glitters with it.

The Yank are better than 2 to 1 favorite and should be, if one wants to seriously consider a statistical and factual comparison, man for man, and throw out the rest of the factors in a World Series, including desire, pride, and that all-important edge in pitching.

We're picking the Yanks in five games (the last time these two teams met in the World Series—in 1939—the Yanks went home after four straight) and we're just going along with the bold face fact, such as:

(1) Experience. The Series is old stuff to the New Yorkers. None of the Reds has been in a series except Manager Fred Hutchinson, who pitched an inning in the 1940 event for the Tigers; the crafty coach, Jim Turner, the ex-Yankee who may be the big weapon the Reds have against the A. L. champs, and Dick Sisler, another coach.

THERE IS no comparison in power. The Maris - Mantle combine is only part of it for virtually every guy in the Yankee lineup can hit them out of the park and Elston Howard, Yogi Berra, Bill Skowron and John Blanchard have hit at least 20 or more each in addition to the gigantic total of the M-Squad. The Red's power is wrapped up in Frank Robinson, who has 37 home runs; Gene Freese, with 24; Gordy Coleman, with 25 and Wally Post, with 20.

(3) The Yankee outfield with Berra, Mantle and Maris hardly can be matched by the Reds' Post, Gus Bell, Vada Pinson and Robinson although Pinson and Robbie, two of the top hitters in the league, are speed demons on the bases.

(4) The Yankee infield, also, probably has an edge with the slick fielding of Cletis Boyer, Tony Kubek and Bobby Richardson making up for the clumsiness of ex-footballer Bill Skowron at first. The Reds have experienced guys in Freese, Eddie Kasko and Don Blasingame but Coleman at first is a rookie and the replacements are rookies.

(5) The Yankee catching is far out in front with Howard, then Berra or Blanchard as needed. The Red's receiving is inexperienced.

(6) If the Reds have any edge it might be in pitching with Joey Jay, Bob Purkey and Jim O'Toole as their front - liners, but the Yanks certainly aren't suffering with Whitey Ford, the great left-hander who will be setting new Series marks, Ralph Terry and Bill Stafford. For relief the Yankee stopper, Louie Arroyo, has been magnificent although he has faded a bit lately.

(7) The Yankee bench is stronger. Bill Gardner, Hector Lopez and John Blanchard will go against the Reds' big pinch-hitting gun Jerry Lynch.

THE YOUNG Reds may find Yankee Stadium an awesome place to play in compared to their Crosley Field. Three of their power boys, Robinson, Post and Freese, hit from the right side and the Yankee Stadium left field foul line is several feet longer than right field with the outfield going to 400-plus to over 450 feet in center field. At Crosley Field center field is only 387 feet away, with left field 328 and right field 336.

(9) The Yanks probably will be out to make amends for blowing the Series last year to the Pirates. So the incentive is still there for the proud New Yorkers.

As we see it, the Reds' big hope is pitching, and particularly so because their coach is the ex-Yankee, Turner, who should have quite a book on the Yankee hitters.

Conga Line To Uncoil Before Bucks

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Single-wing football, seldom seen any more, will spice the scene Saturday in Ohio Stadium.

UCLA's Bruins, exponents of the style of attack abandoned by most teams with the rise of the T-formation, will give the fans a bang, says Ohio State coach Elmer Siskind, who scouted them last week.

Bill Skowron, 1b; Clete Boyer, 3b; Ford, p.

If Mantle doesn't play, Howard will bat cleanup, Berra fifth, Skowron sixth, and Lopez seventh.

Cincinnati Manager Fred Hutchinson, who says he is not the least perturbed about the top-heavy odds against his club, has only one doubtful starter, Catcher Darrell Johnson has a strain in his left side. If he can't make it, Jerry Zimmerman probably will get the call.

The National League champions' lineup will be Don Blasingame, 2b; Ed Kasko, ss; Vada Pinson, cf; Frank Robinson, lf; Wally Post, rf; Gene Freese, 3b; Gordy Coleman, 1b; Johnson or Zimmerman, c; O'Toole, p.

"I see," observed Hutchinson, "that we're not supposed to have a chance. Well, we surprised people all season, and it's likely that we have one big one left."

Most observers figure the only chance the Reds' have of springing the same kind of upset as the Pittsburgh Pirates engineered last year is for their pitchers to squash the Yankee long-hitters.

The Reds will depend on O'Toole, Joey Jay and Bob Purkey, along with two fine relievers—Jim Brosnan and Bill Henry Ken Johnson, a knuckleballer, also will be available in relief.

Defensively the Reds who were picked to finish fifth or sixth in this years pennant chase, have nothing to measure up to the Yankees.

"They say," laughed Freese, "you have to have strength down the middle to win a pennant. Look down our middle. You have to look 350 feet from home plate (to Pinson) to find strength."

California will have three $50,000 PGA golf tournaments early in 1962. Florida will have one.

The Yankees will see Red as of Wednesday, as the World Series unfolds and when the early fall classics ends a few days later in Cincinnati the mighty men of maul should have their 19th World championship and all the gold that glitters with it.

The Yank are better than 2 to 1 favorite and should be, if one wants to seriously consider a statistical and factual comparison, man for man, and throw out the rest of the factors in a World Series, including desire, pride, and that all-important edge in pitching.

We're picking the Yanks in five games (the last time these two teams met in the World Series—in 1939—the Yanks went home after four straight) and we're just going along with the bold face fact, such as:

(1) Experience. The Series is old stuff to the New Yorkers. None of the Reds has been in a series except Manager Fred Hutchinson, who pitched an inning in the 1940 event for the Tigers; the crafty coach, Jim Turner, the ex-Yankee who may be the big weapon the Reds have against the A. L. champs, and Dick Sisler, another coach.

THERE IS NO comparison in power. The Maris - Mantle combine is only part of it for virtually every guy in the Yankee lineup can hit them out of the park and Elston Howard, Yogi Berra, Bill Skowron and John Blanchard have hit at least 20 or more each in addition to the gigantic total of the M-Squad. The Red's power is wrapped up in Frank Robinson, who has 37 home runs; Gene Freese, with 24; Gordy Coleman, with 25 and Wally Post, with 20.

(3) The Yankee outfield with Berra, Mantle and Maris hardly can be matched by the Reds' Post, Gus Bell, Vada Pinson and Robinson although Pinson and Robbie, two of the top hitters in the league, are speed demons on the bases.

(4) The Yankee infield, also, probably has an edge with the slick fielding of Clete Boyer, Tony Kubek and Bobby Richardson making up for the clumsiness of ex-footballer Bill Skowron at first. The Reds have experienced guys in Freese, Eddie Kasko and Don Blasingame but Coleman at first is a rookie and the replacements are rookies.

(5) The Yankee catching is far out in front with Howard, then Berra or Blanchard as needed. The Red's receiving is inexperienced.

(6) If the Reds have any edge it might be in pitching with Joey Jay, Bob Purkey and Jim O'Toole as their front-liners, but the Yanks certainly aren't suffering with Whitey Ford, the great left-hander who will be setting new Series marks. Ralph Terry and Bill Stafford, for relief the Yankee stopper, Louie Arroyo, has been magnificent although he has faded a bit lately.

(7) The Yankee bench is stronger. Bill Gardner, Hector Lopez and John Blanchard will go against the Reds' big pinch-hitting gun Jerry Lynch.

THE YOUNG Reds may find Yankee Stadium an awesome place to play in compared to their Crosley Field. Three of their power boys, Robinson, Post and Freese, hit from the right side and the Yankee Stadium left field foul line is several feet longer than right field with the outfield going to 400-plus to over 450 feet in center field. At Crosley Field center field is only 387 feet away, with left field 328 and right field 356.

(9) The Yanks probably will be out to make amends for blowing the Series last year to the Pirates. So the incentive is still there for the proud New Yorkers.

As we see it, the Reds' big hope is pitching, and particularly so because their coach is the ex-Yankee, Turner, who should have quite a book on the Yankee hitters.

Bob Mitchum a tough guy? This little visitor to a "Cape Fear" location set at Savannah, Ga., found him gentle as a lamb.

Myth of Mitchum Makes Real Money

By ARMAND ARCHERD
Central Press Association
Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD — For some strange reason Bob Mitchum seems embarrassed by the fact he earns his living as — an actor. Perhaps that is why the big guy tries to give the impression he is not a GOOD actor. The Mitchum attitude is familiar — he tries to seem careless, bored, bothered, sometimes amused by the things he's required to do to earn a fortune.

He acts as if he couldn't care less about doing another film, but when producers try to sign him, they find his attitude only means they'll have to pay more for him than almost any other actor. Even producer — actor Gregory Peck had to pay Mitchum the lion's share of the film he, Peck, was making in order to have him as co-star.

Peck was pleased, he revealed to us, to get Mitchum for "Cape Fear". "He's the only guy for the role", said Peck. "He's the most underrated actor in the business". Mitchum plays one of the lowest, dirtiest, most dastardly heavies of his career in "Fear" — a convicted criminal on parole who seeks revenge on the man (Peck) who put him away for attempting to assault the attorney's wife and daughter.

It's the kind of role Mitchum secretly loves because it keeps the Mitchum myth alive and gives him the chance to be sought for complete "change-of-pace" roles afterward — very sympathetic ones, such as "Heaven Knows Mr. Allison" and "The Sundowners".

Before going into one "Fear" scene in which he was to take advantage of Barrie Chase, Mitchum, stripped to the chest, came off stage and clowning around, doing imitations of Mitchum — puffing out his chest, rolling back his shoulders and drooping his eyelids. When called into the scene, he casually reverted to the sadistic, script. He made it seem effortless.

Exactly where "The Method" acting and all other approaches to the art leave off that's where Mitchum, the so-called indifferent Mitchum, begins. No one has ever caught him consulting a script in the time — and — length supposed.

Red Chinese Admit Flops in Farm, Factory

TOKYO (AP)—Red China admits failures in farm and factory and in the midst of its economic difficulties has turned to a study of the Soviet Union's "experiences in socialist construction."

These disclosures unfolded today from thousands of words of editorials and speeches during the just-concluded Oct. 1 celebration of the 12th anniversary of the Red regime's founding.

While studying Soviet experience in building its economy, Red China has emphasized it will continue the rural communes assailed by Soviet Premier Khrushchev as impractical.

Chinese officials report failures in agricultural production had a damaging impact on heavy and light industry and the nation's living standards.

Speeches and editorials made repeated references to difficulties brought on by natural calamities — drought, flood and typhoon — in the past three years.

Peiping earlier this year conceded that the grain harvest had been a bad one. But this was the first direct admission of the effect of crop failure on light and heavy industry and "the people's livelihood."

Essentially an agricultural country, Red China always has depended upon agricultural exports to get the machinery needed for industrialization.

The official Peiping People's Daily said: "While achieving great successes, we have encountered certain difficulties in the economy in our forward march and there have been certain shortcomings in our work."

It went on to say that this year has been one of great readjustment "to overcome the new discrepancy in the balance of the national economy."

The paper indicated there is a grave shortage of raw materials to feed the nation's growing industrial complex. It called for efforts to boost the production of light industry and handicrafts, the capacity of mining and lumber projects.

U.S. May Stock Fallout Shelters

CINCINNATI (AP) — Though federal assistance for building a community fallout shelter at suburban Terrace Park won't be available, the government may later help stock the shelter, according to Mayor John Jordan.

Jordan said he received a letter from Adam Yarmolinsky, special assistant to the secretary of defense stating there is no government program to aid in building shelters. He added the letter mentioned a government program to help in stocking and equipping shelters already built.

Terrace Park residents vote next month on a $250,000 bond issue to finance the shelter which would accommodate the village's 2,000 inhabitants.

Editor Tagged For Ohioana Career Medal

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—News-paper executive Roy W. Hows will be presented an Ohioana Career Medal at the Martha Kinney Cooper Ohioana Library Association's 32nd annual meeting for Ohio authors and composers here Oct. 28.

The medals honor outstanding Ohioans whose careers have added national distinction to the state's heritage by accomplishments in art, music and letters.

Howard, born in Butler County—in the tollhouse at Gano on the Dayton Turnpike where his grandfather was tollgate keeper — is editor and president of the New York World-Telegram and Sun and a director and chairman of the executive committee of the 19 Scripps-Howard newspaper.

He started his journalism career in Indianapolis, where his family moved when he was 7. He became president of United Press in 1912 and head of the Scripps McRae League, forerunner of Scripps-Howard, in 1922.

Ohioana book awards will be presented at the meeting to authors Ralph Hudgon, Louis Filler, Joe Sinclair and Jack Schaefer.

Local Delegation Eyes Convention

Taking part in a circuit convention of Jehovah's Witnesses at the Ohio State Fairgrounds in Columbus October 6-8, will be a member of the Circleville congregation, William O. Hall.

Wayne Fetherolf, presiding minister, today announced plans for a delegation of 26 to attend the three-day meet. Hall will appear on the program Friday evening to lead a panel discussion of the subject "The New World Society."

Fetherolf announced that all local meetings are canceled this weekend and that the public is welcome to all convention sessions.

Among local delegates are Mr. Everett Spencer and family, Daniel B. Grubb, Mrs. Stacy Thomas and daughter, Mrs. Marie Ladley and Wilford Rooker.

1962 Ford Galaxies give you every essential feature of far costlier luxury cars.

Now . . . twice-a-year maintenance reduces service to a minimum!

Swift as a rumor, silent as a secret,
Galaxie '62 has the timeless distinction and talent for travel of the Thunderbird that inspired it.

Every quiet mile whispers:
here is a new standard of quality. And every luxurious detail confirms it.

This is the car that introduces twice-a-year maintenance. Routine service is reduced to 30,000 miles on many items such as major lubrications, twice a year or 6,000 miles on the rest.

We suggest you see the new Galaxie
